Senate Address

BUYING POWER BIG NEED

Idaho Senator Stresses Effects of "Gold Mentality" Since 1925

Washington — (AP)—A threefold program for world economic recovery, disarmament, settlement of reparations and restoration of silver, was presented to the senate today by Senator Borah (R., Idaho).

Addressing a crowded senate chamber, Borah discussed world affairs, stressing particularly the "gold mentality" which he said had been in force since 1925.

"I venture this opinion," he said, "that unless armaments are reduced so that burden is lifted, unless reparations are settled so that Europe can start on economic recovery, and unless silver is restored to the place it occupied prior to 1925, to restore to some extent the purchasing power of one half the world, there will not, in my judgment, be any ready return to prosperity."

The Idaho senator, chairman of the foreign relations committee, referred to what he described as gloomy reports coming from the Geneva disarmament conference and warned that unless an agreement to cut armaments is reached, the effect will be felt throughout the world, and investors would be wary.

"Masses Restless"

"I do not know how long the people will be willing to carry the burden they are now carrying," Borah continued, "but we must not be unduly afraid of the fact that the masses everywhere, including our own country, are becoming restless."

"We do not accomplish things generally in this country by revolution, but there can be no doubt of a general feeling among the peoples that the governments are not meeting the task before them."

Borah's address was an economic condition in Europe, and serious and much upon recent attempts of the munition conference for trade agreements, continuing:

"In some of those countries there is no circulating medium. Some are actually in a state of barter."

"Efforts to bring them into an agreement have failed. They failed because there were in the conference those still imbued with the spirit that came out of the great war."

"The conference broke down and those nations face the summer of 1932 in a condition distressing beyond the power of human language to express."

Faithful to assert this "already has had its effect" on world economic conditions, Borah then declared:

"It has already been foreshadowed that the Lausanne conference can not hope to succeed."

Turning to the gold problem, Borah asserted "there must be some relief from this gold mentality."

Gold in U. S., France

He said the United States and France with a population of 170,000,000 owned about 70 per cent of the world's gold compared to the 1,400,000,000 who hold the other 30 per cent.

"It is significant that the abnormal flow of gold into the United States and France marked the beginning of the fall of commodity prices and the liquidation of securities. Deflation began then, is continuing and seems likely to go on."

"We are up against an impossible situation unless there can be a large supply of money."

"England was forced off the gold standard last September. Dire prophecies were heard before that occurred of what would happen. It is the only bright spot today on the horizon. That great nation which was committed to the gold standard is being separated from it and it is the only nation today that seems to be on the road to recovery."

"All of that seems proof of the fact to me that there must be some relief from this gold mentality."

ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

Washington — (AP)—Gaston B. Means was arrested today by department of justice agents who charged he had obtained $100,000 from Mrs. Edward B. McLean, wife of the Washington Post publisher, on representations that he would receive the Lindbergh baby. He was charged with larceny.

Relieved that "Honor
Slayers" Are Liberated

Washington — (AP)—The navy department, on the recommendation of Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, commander of the Hawaiian naval district, today ordered Lieut. Thomas H. Masie to duty in the San Francisco Naval district.

Washington — (AP)—Read Admiral Yates Stirling, commander at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, recommended to the navy department today that immediate transfer of the navy personnel convicted in the slaying at Honolulu of Joseph Kahahawai.

Navy department officials indicated the bureau of navigation would issue orders to comply with the recommendation.

The navy men convicted were Lieut. Thomas H. Masie, A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord, enlisted men. It was considered likely the three would leave Honolulu for San Francisco on the next available vessel.

Washington — (AP)—Insistent demands that full pardons be granted Lieut. Thomas H. Masie and his co-defendants in the Honolulu killing of an alleged attacker, rose up in congress at news that Governor Judd had commuted their sentences.

While generally relieved that the four Americans had not been subjected to imprisonment, many senators and representatives showed by comments they felt the stigma of conviction and the consequent loss of citizenship rights should be lifted immediately. A few dissenters, however, were satisfied as matters stood, but attempts for legislation to give President Hoover pardoning power were pushed.

"It shows a spirit over there that is taking care of the situation," said Senator Logan (D., Ky.), who wants a presidential pardon.

"If they are going to do anything, they ought to grant a full pardon,"

NEW EVIDENCE IN
U. S. POSTAL PROBESome Leases Fix Payments
Totalling More Than Purchase Value, Claim

Washington — (AP)—Evidence that some of the government's postal leases had called for payment of sums which totalled several times the purchase value of the property was put today before a senate committee.

Chairman Blaine of the senate committee investigating postal leases, brought out during the questioning of J. R. McCarli, comptroller general, that the government had agreed to pay $120,000 annually for 20 years for rental of a commercial station postoffice at St. Paul which later was condemned and appraised at $25,254. McCarli denied he had approved the lease.

Chairman Blaine then turned the questioning to the Quincy station in Chicago.

He said the owners fixed the cost at $700,000 but that a committee appraisal had put the value at $435,000.

McCarli said his office appraised the station at $350,000.

Blaine said the lease was at an annual rental of $125,000 which was reduced to $120,000 in return for making the contract non-cancelable. "It is interesting to note," Blaine added, "that an alleged consideration for elimination of the cancellation clause was an option for the government to purchase the property at $1,540,000."

McCarli then identified reports made by his office, one of which showed the owners of Station D, Chicago, estimated the value of the property at $60,000 and received an annual rental of $18,000.

The report pointed out this was annually 31 per cent of the value fixed by the owners on their property.

GARNER SECOND TO
ROOSEVELT IN RACE

(By the Associated Press)

With clear cut victory in California's presidential primary, perched on his standard, Speaker John N. Garner of Texas, today was counted back among the Democratic nomination possibilities.

His own state's assured 45 convention votes, plus the California 44 gave him second place in the running, behind Franklin D. Roosevelt's 213. Behind him came J. Hamilton Lewis, 55; Alfred E. Smith, 46; James A. Reed 26; William H. Murray 23. Smith may pass the Garner mark, however.

CAPONE EXCHANGES

Convict No. 40,886 in Atlanta Penitentiary

Atlanta — (AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone began a new life today as Convict No. 40,886 in the Atlanta Federal penitentiary.

The Chicago gang leader was just one of $100, as he was put through examinations to see where he would fit into the prison microcosm.

Capone stepped into the prison office last night and as far as the public was concerned he might have been stepping from the face of the earth for a period of about seven and a half years, long enough for even the notoriety of a Capone to become dim.

As Capone began serving his 11-year sentence for income tax evasion his story became the story of all the other prisoners.

The name written in pencil on a card with the number "40,886" in the morning and ends with "lights out" at 9 p. m. It includes meals at about 22 cents per prisoner per day, work in the various prison shops or at odd jobs, and possibly an evening's entertainment of motion pictures, boxing or amateur theatricals.

Capone checked in his flashy and expensive clothing and was given a uniform of cotton shirt, trousers and jacket, all grayish blue. He must submit to a prison haircut and remain in quarantine for three or four weeks.

He can expect an assignment at the end of that period to either the laundry or the tailor shop. If he behaves himself and shows ability, he can look forward to a clerical job or work in the library with opportunities for study and reading.

MAN WOUNDED DURING SPEED BOAT CAPTURE

New London, Conn. — (AP)—The 60-foot speed boat Scipio of Bridgeport, an alleged rum runner, was captured off Fisher's island after one of her crew had been wounded from a machine gun bullet.

The wounded man, known to his shipmates only as Charlie, was shot in the head, the bullet fracturing his skull. Hospital officials said he would probably die.

Extortion Note Threatens
Life Of Wealthy Realtor

Cleveland — (AP)—An attempt to extort $25,000 from Ellsworth H. Augustus, wealthy real estate man and nationally known golf star, under penalty of death, was revealed today. The 80-acre Augustus estate has been placed under a heavy guard.

A letter demanding the money and threatening death unless its terms were complied with was received last Monday by Augustus, he said today. He was instructed to put the money on a fence post by a gate at his estate in Walte Heights village, home of many Cleveland millionaires.

Augustus said he turned the note over to private detectives. Police Chief Theodore A. Myers of Wiloughby, also was notified.

Since then detectives have trailed Augustus in his daily trips to his office and seven men were found patrolling his estate today, refusing admittance to all strangers. His wife and children—Dorance, 9; Albert, 7; and Elizabeth, 4—also were being guarded.

The note written in pencil on a paper bag, said: "Leave $25,000 in paper money beside the gate in the fence along Holart road in the northwest corner of your estate Tuesday night between midnight and 1 a. m. Do this—or you will die at our hands." It was signed: "Poor Families."

Failure to meet the demand was followed yesterday by a telephone call to Augustus' office by a man who told a secretary:

"Tell Mr. Augustus that he didn't keep his word. He'll get it for this—tell him that. If that isn't enough, we'll get his children, too." Augustus was busy on another telephone at the time.

Preceding this call, a woman telephoned the Augustus home, but hung up before he could answer.

YOUNG ROBBERS WOUND
3 IN STORE HOLDUP

Superior — (AP)—Three persons were wounded, one critically, as four youthful robbers last night held up a store in Oliver, eight miles south of Superior.

Tony Urban, 52, proprietor of the store, was struck by revolver bullets in the head and chest and doctors at St. Mary hospital here said they think his recovery was doubtful. His clerk, Walter Snidack, 43, was slugged over the head as was Lewis Rep, 16, a customer, but their injuries were not regarded as serious.

The robbers fired two shots over Snidack's head and struck him when he refused to lie down on the floor.

3 FINES ASSESSED IN
"BLUE SKY" LAW CASE

Green Bay — (AP)—Fines $900 and costs each were imposed on Ral Skidmore and Fred Burke, Marinette, and a fine of $300 and costs on Ben Skidmore, Chicago, by Circuit Judge Henry Graess today on charges of violating the "blue sky" law by sale of securities of the Skidmore Land Credit company without a permit at Marinette in 1925. On motion of the defendants, a 90-day stay of execution was granted in order to perfect an appeal to the state supreme court.

Recovering

London — (AP)—Official announcement was made this evening that a successful operation had been performed on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's eye. This operation was on the right eye. Recently surgeons operated on the other eye to relieve a condition known as glaucoma.

Miss Hamilton, with a rich Wisconsin college background in cooking and dietetics, will give lectures that will inspire all women to make this year's school the largest and most successful in its history. Revenue Bill

Called Back to Consider
Additional Taxes

Washington — (AP)—The senate finance committee refused today to raise income taxes to the wartime level as a part of its effort to find $100,000,000 of additional annual revenue which Chairman Smoot said it needed to produce to balance the budget.

Washington — (AP)—President Hoover was called upon in the senate today by Senator Tydings (D., Md.), to state his views on prohibition before the tax bill is passed and it is too late to tax beer.

Washington — (AP)—The revised revenue bill was declared $100,000,000 short of the goal of balancing the budget by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, and the committee was called back to look for new taxes.

Smoot made his estimate after the committee had applied the brakes to further reversals in rates and had settled down to work on the treasury just what the bill did.

He pointed to even higher increases in the income taxes as one way of finding the additional $100,000,000 which appeared to be necessary after the first survey of the rewritten legislation.

Undersecretary Ballantine of the treasury emerged from the executive session of the committee cautiously about making an estimate but he intimated more revenue would have to be found.

He agreed that the senate committee bill raised about a billion dollars, practically the amount provided by the house, but said even more money was required.

Apparently the collapse of the omnibus economy bill in the house has sent the leaders looking for greater relief.

Howling down further proposals for changes in the complex bill today, it agreed to only one. The 25 per cent admissions tax for prize fights was cut down to 10 per cent, but the 45 cents exemption on these tickets was removed.

Taxes on tires or import duties on rubber were among the propositions under consideration as the weary committee reassembled for an afternoon session.

GERMANS VICTORS
OVER LITHUANIANS
IN MEMEL ELECTION

Memel, Memelland — (AP)—The German parties won yesterday's elections in this little country, whose bitter racial controversies have wide ramifications in the politics of Europe.

Returns today showed the Germans had polled a tremendous majority over the Lithuanians, who sought to capture control.

The German parties held their 24 seats in the diet. The Farmers won 10, the People party, the Communists 3 and the Social Democrats 2. The combined Lithuanian parties secured only 5 seats.

Conflict between the German and Lithuanian elements in Memel came an international issue last February when Otto Boettcher, German president of the former diet, was dismissed by the Lithuanian governor, Col. Antanas Merkys, on a charge of treating with a foreign country — Germany.

Conflict Never Officially Declared War Despite
Many Casualties

Shanghai — (AP)—Japanese military authorities announced tonight that they had ordered their troops to begin a withdrawal from the positions they now occupy into the international settlement and the adjacent areas.

It was the first step in carrying out an armistice signed this morning to put an end to the hostilities between China and Japan which have been going on in the Shanghai sector since January.

The armistice, a compromise arrangement which grew out of weeks of negotiations, was signed by Japan's representatives in the hospital where they are recovering from wounds inflicted by an assassin last week. The Chinese spokesman signed at his home and the representatives of the neutral powers affixed their signatures at the British embassy.

The terms of the peace were not immediately made public, but an official version indicated that it was a compromise bridging the differences which had deadlocked the peace parley for a month or more.

The Chinese were understood to have won their demand that Japanese troops retire from their present positions into the international settlement. The Japanese obtained an agreement that some of their soldiers remain in the vicinity of Hongkew and Woosung.

No Time Limit

It appeared also that Japan had succeeded in avoiding a definite time limit for withdrawal of her troops. Her representatives refused to accept such a condition during all the negotiations. At the same time, however, it was understood that the retirement would begin within a week and would be completed within a month.

The document was taken successively to the foreign settlement, the French concession and to Chinese territory.

Sir Miles W. Lampson, British minister, who sponsored the negotiations which led up to the agreement, signed it first. The signatures of the representatives of the other friendly powers also were affixed at the British consulate, except that of the French minister, who was ill. He signed it at his home in the French concession.

Quo Tai Chai, chief Chinese delegate, signed at his home and finally the treaty was taken to the hospital where the Japanese minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, propped up in bed as a result of injuries he sustained from a bomb last Friday, signed for Japan.

FALL TO BE LIBERATED
SUNDAY FROM PRISON

Santa Fe, N. M. — (AP)—Warden Ed Swope of the New Mexico penitentiary, said today he would not release Albert B. Fall from the state prison here on Sunday, as requested by the president of the United States or the federal parole board. An order from Attorney General Mitchell will not be heeded, Swope said.

Washington — (AP)—Attorney General Mitchell said today he would order New Mexico state penitentiary authorities to release Albert B. Fall on Sunday.

He explained that a judgment for $100,000 stands against the former secretary of the interior for the fine which he failed to pay. It was imposed with a year and a day sentence, after Fall's conviction of accepting a bribe in connection with naval oil reserve leases.

Mitchell said that Warden Swope of the penitentiary—who announced he would hold Fall for payment of the fine or to serve an extra 30 days and take the pauper's oath—might not understand the situation, and therefore he would be instructed.

The fine is collectable, Mitchell explained, whenever Fall is able to pay it, and the judgment "stands as a legal charge."

ILLEGAL CONCESSIONS
CHARGED AGAINST ROAD

New York — (AP)—The federal grand jury today returned six indictments growing out of alleged violations of the Elkins act by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., Joseph Moskowitz, a commission dealer in flour, Harry Kulla, manager of Jacob Kulla Sons, flour dealers, and the Kellogg Sales Co., distributors of prepared cereals.

The indictments charge that unlawful concessions were made by the railroad to the other defendants through the device of cancelling storage charges, by which means the defendants received preference over other shippers.

Former Crown Prince Appeals To America For German People

STATES BURDEN MUST BE EASED TO HELP WORLD

Points Out Evils in Fatherland Resulting from Versailles Treaty

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

(Copyright, 1932, Associated Press) Berlin—(AP)—Friedrich Wilhelm von Hohenzollern, Germany's former crown prince, in the first interview he has granted since his return from exile in 1925, issued an animated appeal to the American people today to "understand" Germany.

Tomorrow is the crown prince's 50th birthday. In the first stages of the 40-minute chat, he sat nonchalantly on a sofa, puffing leisurely on a cigarette and talking of sports and mechanics, his two non-political hobbies.

But his face hardened and his voice became vibrant as he turned the conversation to the subject nearest his heart, the condition of Germany. Feelings pent up during almost nine years of silence seemed to surge within him.

"When you ask me, in connection with my fiftieth birthday to make a statement," he said, "I cannot avoid pointing straight from the shoulder and telling you what is at stake in my fatherland today."

"I cannot close my eyes to our appalling misery, to the constantly growing despair which everybody who is willing to see and hear encounters on every side, to the evidences of progressive destruction which day after day, with merciless, pitiless, remorseless hands, small and large economic distresses, ruin up and down the land, to the years of painstaking, tenacious labor."

"War Guilt Lie" "Claims made about Germany's guilt for the outbreak of the war are untrue and have, besides, long been disproved."

"What about the thesis with which the United States in 1917 entered the war against Germany—the thesis that Germany was the aggressor?" "In behalf of the liberty of small nations? What a preposterous, fatal mistake!"

"What about the celebrated 14 points of President Wilson which Germany accepted and whose fulfillment Germany has a right to expect, even today?" They were thrown in the discard at Paris.

"Have you proud and free Americans any inkling of what it means to make a proud people submit to special laws and regulations? Is it necessary to point out what it means to take the right of determining its national self-defense from a people with a history of centuries and with boundaries exposed on all sides?"

"This doctrine of Versailles, from which the whole world is suffering, and the spirit from which it emanates, are, in the last analysis, responsible for all the disaster today. True enough, you Americans did not sign it, but—and you will pardon me for saying this—you have made it possible and you continue to tolerate the impossible conditions created by it."

"Is it really necessary to emphasize that Europe's recovery can be brought about only in the heart of this continent? There is German people at peace and at work? That only such a Germany will be able, through practical cooperative effort, to attack the problems upon which depends the restitution of a sane order in this world, also to assist in lifting your American burden?"

Becomes Excited "The crown prince had talked himself into a pitch of excitement. He paused a moment to let his feelings subside."

"If I were to be successful," he went on, "in catching the ear of the people across the Atlantic with what I have told you, and if thereby I should be able, at least in a certain measure, to help my suffering people, I should regard this as my most beautiful birthday present."

The prince heaped up sports at the opening of the interview, the crown prince wished especially that he could visit the United States for the coming Olympic games at Los Angeles. "Some of my friends have told me of the wonders of California," he said, "and I have so steeped myself in Jack London's novels that I am yearning for your west coast."

He also spoke of his son, Louis Ferdinand, who is working at the Ford automobile factory at Detroit. "I believe," he said, "the choice of this field of activity of his own free will because the love for things mechanical is in his very blood as an inheritance from my own love for mechanics."

"In the case of my other boys, too, I am glad to see an active interest in things mechanical developing. And I am doubly glad that with them, as with me, this interest is not limited purely to the mechanism of technical labor, but that they are constantly searching for the bridge that must be constructed from technique over to the spiritual and economic phases of life, for this, as far as I can judge, constitutes one of the most difficult problems of our time."

The prince began the interview in German, then changed to English, which he speaks like an Oxford scholar, and finally, as he grew more animated, lapsed back again into German, enlivened by undiluted German slang.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

THE ROUT IN WASHINGTON

By a vote of nearly five to one and after a debate of only forty minutes the House on Monday passed a bill which would create three new classes of government dependents and obligate the taxpayers to provide something like a hundred million dollars a year for perhaps fifty or sixty years to come. The three new classes are, first, widows of men who were a uniform for ninety days, providing the widow married the veteran five years before his death and providing that in addition to her earnings she has a net income of less than $250 a year; second, the children of veterans until the age of sixteen or until they marry, provided the child does not have an actual net income of $400 a year; and third, any child of a veteran for the whole of his life if that child is permanently incapable of self-support by reason of mental or physical defect.

The actual payments provided are small: for widows the sum is only $20 a month, for a widow with children it is $6 a month additional for each child, for a child which is an orphan it is $20 a month, and $5 additional for each of his brothers and sisters. But as the committee reporting the bill pointed out: "While this measure is not what we want, it is the best we could do under the circumstances." It is indeed. For once the principle is established that the government must support the widows and children of veterans, the actual cash payments can be increased whenever Congressmen feel that they need to buy some more votes.

By its legislation during the last years Congress has created a privileged class, a class of men who have rights which no other citizens possess. All that is needed to be put on a uniform a day or two before the war ended. By this new legislation the privileges of this class would become hereditary. Our own historical experience shows that once established such privileges are never renounced and never reduced. They can only be increased.

If the country agrees to the hereditary principle, it will have created a new class of voters who will hang together because they have a common interest in appropriations from the Treasury. Because they hang together they will terrorize Congressmen. In addition to the veterans' bloc, we shall then have the widows' bloc and the guardians of orphans' bloc. That ought to constitute a large enough body of voters to make it impossible for Congress ever to resist any demand from the veterans' lobbies.

There are no doubt some Congressmen who sincerely believe that a man who once wore a uniform has done such extraordinary service to the nation that he and his widow and his children and even his parents are entitled to draw money from the Treasury for decades to come. But there are not many Congressmen who really think that. Most of them believe that the financial obligation has been discharged except to men disabled in the line of duty and to the dependents of men who died in the service. Why then do they vote these measures?

They vote them because they wish to be re-elected. Because they like to draw $10,000 a year. Because they like the perquisites. Because they like the importance which they enjoy. Because they hope to become Senators and Governors. That is the whole of it. By voting public money to the veterans and the veterans' widows they are able to buy a good many votes. It is as crude as that.

What is a nation to do when it finds itself the victim of such a traffic? Nothing, unless it has the moral strength to raise under new leaders who will lead a crusade against this utter demoralization of representative government. The London Times was right when it said this week that

What disturbs the American public is that Congress, instead of setting an example of steadiness and co-operation to a country facing a crisis, has allowed itself to become bewildered and disorganized. Still more disturbing is the fact that party leaders seem almost to have abdicated their functions at a time when their guidance is so urgently needed.

Where are the party leaders in this crisis? It is silly and theoretical and academic to suggest that the demoralization in Washington is bad enough, and the consequences it may entail dangerous enough, to warrant the recognized leaders of both parties in taking some extraordinary measure to stop the rout? The Democratic party has three men whom it has honored with a Presidential nomination. Mr. Cox, Mr. Davis and Mr. Smith. It has also five men whom it might nominate. Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Baker, Mr. Young, Mr. Ritchie and Mr. Taylor. What if those eight men went to Washington, sat down with the leaders in Congress and with the President and agreed upon a national program of taxation and economic

OUTLINE PROGRAM FOR U. S. DEFENSE

Changes Advocated in Size of American Fighting Vessels

Washington—(AP)—Changes in the size of fighting ships have revised the war department's views on what is necessary for coast defense.

Major General John W. Guiltick, chief of coast artillery, made this known to the house appropriations committee before he spent last year on seacoast defenses in the United States, Hawaii and Panama.

While the army used to have to figure on defending the coast from attacks by battleships carrying 14 and 16-inch guns, General Guiltick said, it now can expect a good portion of the assault from the lighter cruisers carrying only 8-inch guns.

Consequently, he added, fewer large weapons are needed. He insisted, however, upon remembering the fact of a 16-inch gun that can shoot "23 miles with very satisfactory results as against an 8-inch gun that shoots a mere 19 miles.

Then he added: "Operations during the World war in which shore batteries engaged ships clearly indicated that a smaller number of guns than was formerly believed to be the case would be sufficient in covering any water area. I think the number of guns can be materially reduced in some of our harbor defenses."

The army is equipping these long range guns with firing control equipment that puts a shell every minute, very accurately, at a target, out of sight. It also is developing a new mechanical detector that points out aircraft guns at airplanes without much help from man.

BOYD HEARING NEARS CLOSE

Attorneys Present Arguments in Trial of Five Directors

Madison—(AP)—Arguments which will guide Judge S. B. Schein in determining whether the five directors of the defunct Joseph M. Boyd Co. investment firm, should be held for trial, were resumed in superior court today.

Counsel for Alfred T. Rogers, Dr. C. A. Harper, and R. R. Kropf presented pleas on behalf of their clients yesterday. William R. Curkeet, attorney for Mr. Kropf resumed arguments today. Other directors are charged with false advertising and violation of the securities law are Joseph M. Boyd and Ray Farness.

State Senator Glenn Roberts, Madison, said his client, Dr. Harper, played only a small part in the affairs of the Boyd company and contended that the laws upon which some of the charges are based is not apply to directors.

Sen. Roberts followed the argument presented by Francis E. McGovern, Milwaukee, counsel for Mr. Rogers, by contending that responsibility for the advertising of securities rests upon the administrative officers of a company rather than on the directors. He argued that his client was aware that the company had made an oversale on the $900,000 Beecroft Building company bond issue but that he was under impression that the matter had been taken care of.

"To convict him of aiding in the alleged embezzlement by Mr. Boyd it must be shown that he 'connived, aided and assisted' in the embezzlement," Sen. Roberts said. "No jury in the land would convict Dr. Harper on the evidence which the state could bring if he is tried alone."

Both Roberts and McGovern contended that if embezzlement occurred it came at the time the Beecroft bonds were authenticated, and placed on sale, long before the directors knew of the oversale.

The state maintained that the Boyd company advertised falsely when it claimed the Beecroft bonds by a first mortgage on the Orpheum, Parkway and Strand theatres but Attorney Curkeet contended that the circular containing the information was approved by the Public Service commission, and that nothing was wrong until the prosecutors "started looking around for something to drag someone into court."

BIRTH CONTROL IS DISCUSSED BY METHODISTS

Committee on Family Relations Takes Up Subject —No Hint on Stand

Atlantic City, N. J.—(AP)—Birth control, on which Methodism has never made official pronouncement, was slated for its first committee consideration in the history of the church today.

The committee on family relations, a sub-body of the important committee on state of church, prepared to take up the subject, at the suggestion of its chairman, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of New York.

The action is being taken, a committee member said, because of numerous declarations on the subject by other denominational bodies. There was no indication as to the stand the committee would take, but well informed sources expressed the belief it would make a report that would bring the subject up before the general conference for legislation.

The family relations committee was also watched with interest today for a further discussion of the changes proposed in the existing church discipline on divorce and the remarriage of divorced persons.

A memorial from the Omaha, Neb., area outlines some of the alterations on the divorce rules sought from the conference.

The discipline, as it now stands, proclaims that divorce is a matter of state responsibility, but the memorial, says the church should grant no approval to the state "for giving divorce for other than scriptural causes."

Ask Change in Rule The memorial also asks a change in the present discipline permitting a minister to re-marry "the innocent person in a divorce, when it is clearly established in the mind of the minister that the true cause of the divorce is adultery or its equivalent."

It declares a minister has no right to solemnize marriages to divorced persons on the unsupported evidence of the contracting parties as to the cause of divorce.

It calls the expression "adultery or its moral equivalent" misleading and requests that "the stigma of such language be removed."

In a primary discussion all members of the committee were agreed "that there were other legitimate reasons for divorce besides misconduct," and several members declared for a more liberal construction of this portion of discipline.

"We must safeguard the reputation of the church, but we must leave something to the minister's own conscience," said Dr. E. C. Love of Watertown, N. Y., who has been appointed to rewrite the sections of discipline questioned by the memorial.

The divorce discipline points under consideration were adopted at the Kansas City conference in 1928 and were regarded at the time as representing a liberal trend of official church opinion.

The "marring person" is also due for committee action. There is pending a memorial calling for legislation "to restrict the activities of the so-called 'marring persons' whose actions have scandalized the church."

Girl Quits Stage To Enter Lawrence College As Pupil

It seems a far cry from the glamorous activity of the vaudeville stage to the sedate classrooms of a small college, but that has been the experience of Miss Polly Neenan of Milwaukee, a sophomore at Lawrence, who for almost a year appeared in a dancing troupe on the Radio-Kellogg circuit.

While with the troupe, Miss Neenan traveled over the entire United States and a great part of Canada, and tells many stories of the novel life of the theatrical group.

Miss Neenan received her chance to appear on the circuit when her unusual dancing ability was noticed at the Perry-Mansfield camp in Colorado, and after a nine weeks stay at the camp, she traveled to New York where she joined a semi-classical dancing group. The tour began in New York in September 1929, the fall after Miss Neenan graduated from high school, and ended the following May in Los Angeles.

The troupe, led by the Lee twins, played one week "stand-ins" with three performances daily, in all of the larger cities of the United States and Canada. Canadian audiences, says Miss Neenan, are somewhat different than American audiences, in that shouts of "bravo" and other forms of vocal commendation, are usually added to the ordinary hand-clapping applause.

This type of applause is somewhat bewildering to the actor appearing in the country for the first time. Also according to Miss Neenan, there are usually a great number of lords and ladies of the English nobility present at the performance, all occupying the choice boxes.

In telling of the life of the average professional man or woman of the theatrical group, Miss Neenan emphasized their loyalty to members of their own profession, and their hesitancy to become intimate with so-called "outsiders."

On a circuit such as the F.R.O. one has an opportunity to meet many celebrities of the theatrical world, and Miss Neenan recalled meetings with Charles Farrell, James Hall, Viola Dana, George K. Arthur and many other universally known in their profession.

The every day life and habits of the members of dancing troupes are carefully watched, according to Miss Neenan, and the brilliant night life usually attributed by popular notion to members of the profession is practically nonexistent. Contracts must be fulfilled and the daily performances require physical fitness.

In prosperous times, such as in 1929, vaudeville is a well paying profession, according to Miss Neenan. The better acts sometimes receive as much as $1500 a week, and photographic posing brings in large amounts as extra salary.

BARREL OF WHISKY AIDED NIELLSVILLE WIN COUNTY SEAT

Nielsville —(P)—Clarkeco supervisors failed to appropriate money to replace a bridge over O'Neill creek, and discussions concerning the venerable structure prompted old-timers to revive the story of the barrel of whisky which made Nielsville a county seat.

Once only a narrow footbridge, on which a man could walk if he did an agile balancing act, spanned the creek. Down in Nielsville an election was being held to determine where the court house should be built.

Nielsville partisans, according to the old story, placed a barrel of whisky at the north end of the footbridge. Down came the northern farmers, most of whom were against Nielsville as a county seat. They pulled up shortly at the whisky barrel, and did so well, it that few were able to cross the unstable footbridge. So the hostile voters stayed north of O'Neill creek and Nielsville walked off with the courthouse.

Council Appropriates $1,000 For Supervised Play Program

1ST DECISION IS REVERSED BY ALDERMEN

Also Vote $500 to Defray Expenses of July Fourth Celebration

Appropriations of $1,000 for supervised play and $500 for the American Legion Fourth of July celebration were made by the common council at its meeting Wednesday night.

With a direct turn-about-face from their decision last fall, when supervised play was eliminated from the 1932 budget, the council accepted the recommendation of the finance committee that the city give $1,000 toward the summer recreation program. The school board will pay the other $1,500.

Alderman Wenzel Hassman of the Fifth ward objected to the Legion donation, arguing that at its second meeting the new council was starting to give one thing after another. He warned them that next fall, if conditions do not brighten, the same

BAND REFERENDUM IS NOT EFFECTIVE UNTIL NEXT YEAR

Band concerts will continue through the coming summer, despite the referendum vote on the band appropriation. A. C. Bosser, city attorney, ruled at the meeting of the common council last night.

In his decision he pointed out that the charter ordinance adopted by the people at the polls on April 5, which restricts the city appropriation for band concerts to $5,000, could not affect the 1932 budget prepared in 1931. Inasmuch as $5,000 was included in the 1932 budget, and the money levied and collected, the new ordinance cannot affect the expenditure of this amount. It can restrict only subsequent budgets.

council will be clamoring for a few hundreds of dollars. Alderman Mike Steinhauser argued that the Legion celebration would keep hundreds of dollars in Appleton, and that unless the council appropriated $500 the money would have to be contributed by the merchants.

The supervised play appropriation was passed unanimously, while the American Legion donation brought a 7 to 4 vote. Aldermen C. O. Davis, Oren Earle, Hassman and C. D. Thompson voting against it. Alderman Philipp Vogt was absent.

Refer Request

A request for $860 from the Salvation Army, to meet bills for aid given Appleton residents during the past winter, was referred to the committee on public relief. A representative of the Salvation Army explained that 2,552 meals, average cost 25 cents, had been served to Appleton residents, and that 1,387 had found lodgings at the hall. He explained that if the city would pay for these two items, the Army would negotiate a loan to tide it over until next fall, and continue to carry the transient load. At the present time, he stated, the Army is from $1,500 to $2,000 in debt.

The council approved plans for the widening of N. Superior-st. from College-ave. to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, and for the ornamental lighting system for Appleton, Superior and Washington-sts. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids.

An offer from the Green Bay Mississippi Canal company to donate Teulah park to the city in return for freedom from any expense incurred in the rebuilding or maintenance of the E. John-st. bridge was referred to the public works and building committee. The bridge must be rebuilt this spring, and liability for the cost has been an open question.

Would Split Ward

A petition from 125 Fourth ward residents asking to divide the ward in two, with Madison-st. as the dividing line, was discussed in the committee of the whole. The attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance, after which a public hearing will be called.

Copies of a proposed ordinance given the city the right to do all classes of public work without soliciting competitive bids will be sent to all aldermen. The adoption of the ordinance would make it unnecessary to advertise for bids on such jobs as the city plans to do without the aid of a contractor.

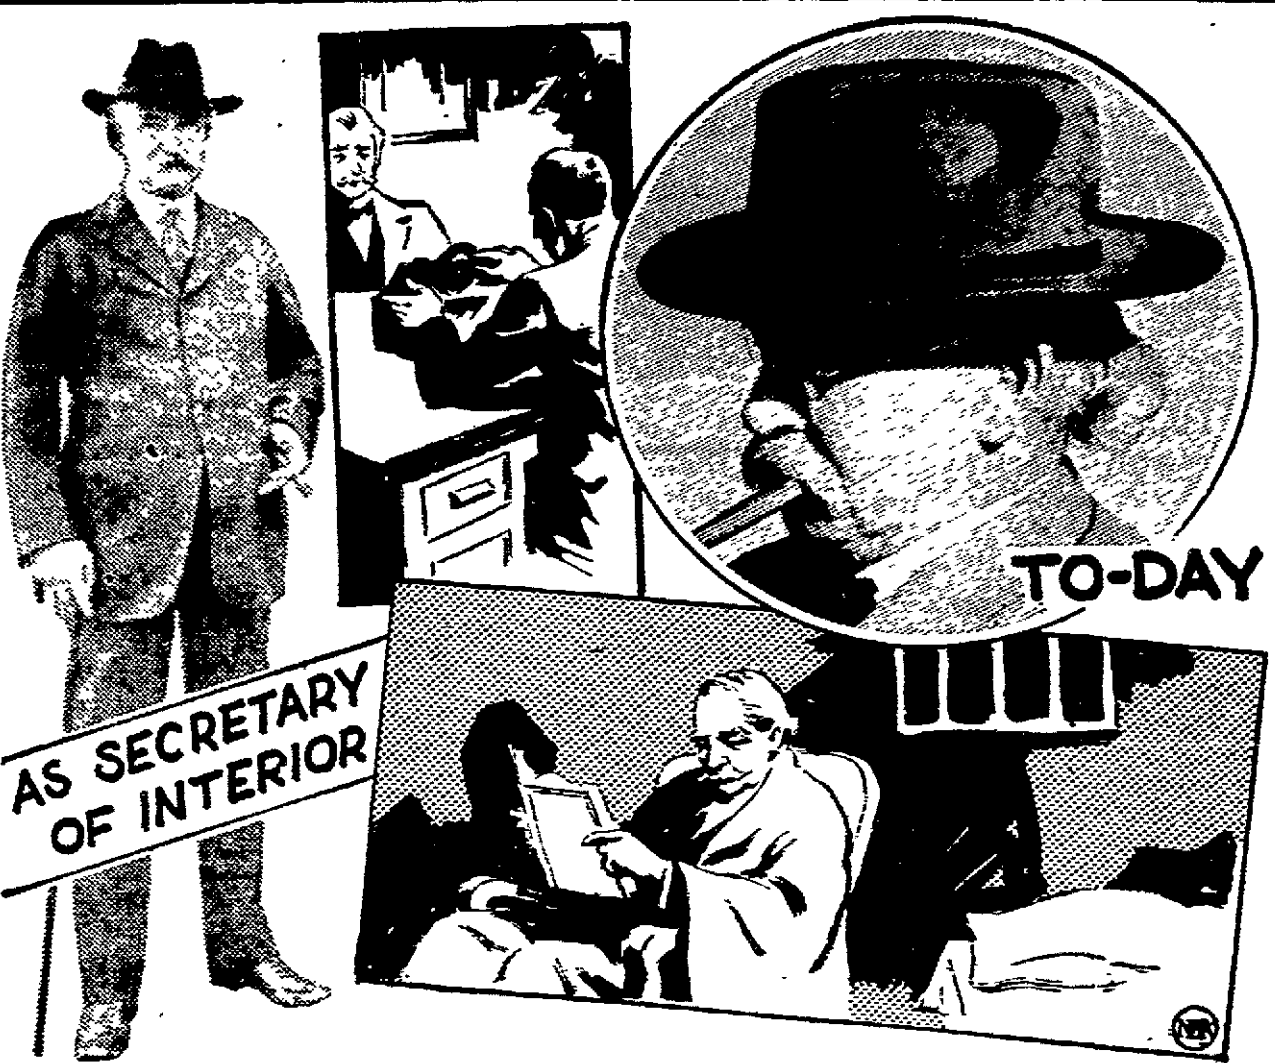

A request from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company for reduced service on both its local and interurban routes was referred to the street and bridge committee. The power company is seeking permission, during the off-peak hours of the day, to decrease the number of trips from Appleton to Neenah and Kaukauna, and to change its local route from the cemetery to Mason-st. from a 20-minute to a 30-minute schedule.

Decision on the transfer of the Miller property on the corner of Superior and Lawrence-sts. to the commercial and light manufacturing district was deferred until the next meeting, with the intention of first securing the deed for the property to be donated to the city. If the zoning of the property is changed, 10 feet of it is to be donated to the city for all purposes and 10 feet is to be bought by the city for $500.

No appropriation will be made for extra help for the vacation period. While most city officials carry an extra load of work during the vacation period, new men are usually added to the fire department during the vacation season.

Fall to Be Released Next Sunday

These contrasting pictures show how the events of the past 10 years have left their mark on Albert B. Fall, President Harding's secretary of interior, who is due to be released on May 8 from the New Mexico state prison after serving slightly less than 10 months for accepting a $100,000 bribe from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, in 1921.

The money, in cash, was delivered to Fall in the famous "little black bag" by Doheny's son and soon thereafter Doheny got exclusive drilling rights on the navy's vast Elk Hills oil reserve in California.

After years of fighting in the courts, Fall was finally adjudged guilty and on July 20, 1931, entered the New Mexico prison under a sentence of a year and a day, a term since shortened by the customary time off for "good behavior."

On Feb. 2 of this year, President Hoover refused to parole Fall, despite pleas that he was "a very sick man." He was taken to the prison in an ambulance and is reported to have been in very feeble health since that time.

Shoots Self At Grave Of His Father

Driving his automobile to his father's grave in Lakeside cemetery Waupaca, Wednesday evening, George Lea, 53, Minneapolis, Minn., son of the late Alfred Lea, prominent Waupaca merchant, shot himself through the right temple with a .32 calibre automatic pistol while seated in the car. His father ended his life here last September.

The body slumped in the driver's seat, was found at 7 o'clock this morning by Robert Pinkerton, cemetery sexton. Members of the Thomas Davidson family, Washington-st., who live near the cemetery said they heard a shot about 10 o'clock last night.

Before going to Minneapolis where he became a traveling salesman for a firm in that city, Lea operated the Lea clothing store at New London, Survivors are his widow and one son, Alfred R. Lea, both of Minneapolis; a sister, Mrs. George Klaus, Sheboygan, and two brothers, Dr. Robert Lea, Ladysmith, and Alfred, Waupaca. The body was taken to the Holy Funeral home, Waupaca this morning.

Lavette-st. and to prepare plans for an alley in block 25 between the postoffice and the Brandt garage. The clerk was asked to advertise for bids for the construction of new sidewalks, and for asphalt for filling street cracks, and to notify the railroad companies to repair all street and walk crossings in the city. The building inspector is to inspect all awnings over sidewalks.

Several streets will be oiled and new sidewalks will be built on Brewster, Story and Washington-sts., with the provision in the latter in that the land be deeded to the city. Action on a sanitary sewer for Grant-st. was deferred, and gravel bids were rejected. New bids will be solicited. Steel shelving for the city vault, marking paint and a carload of cement will be purchased, and the price committee was asked to secure prices on a semi-fireproof file for the assessor's office.

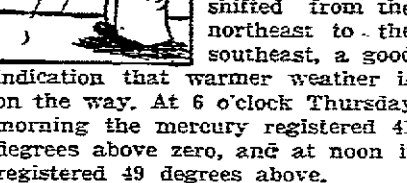

A proposed electrical ordinance was referred to the ordinance committee.

The council voted to hold a joint meeting with the water commission.

5 MEN SENTENCED BY WAUPACA COURT

Try Two Charged With Killing Deer in Town of DuPont Last December

Five Waupaca-co men have received prison sentences during the present term of circuit court with Judge Byron Park presiding at Waupaca.

WATER PAGEANT PLEASURES CROWD

Performance to Be Repeated at Alexander Gym Tonight and Friday Night

Intricate swimming formations, executed with machine-like precision and yet retaining a unique gracefulness and effectively presented solo and group dances in novel and colorful settings at the Alexander gymnasium swimming pool marked the first performance of the second annual Lawrence college water pageant, "Sun God," shown before a capacity crowd last night at the college gymnasium. Another performance is to be given this evening, and the third and another presentation of the pageant will take place Friday evening. Tickets for Thursday's performance will not be accepted Friday.

Miss Edith Kuter, Milwaukee, in the role of Karoo, guardian of the sacred altar fire of the Sun, and Miss Betty Plowright, Menasha, as Prince Boreas, her lover, and son of the Snow King, played the leading roles in the production. Other major roles were played by Miss Janet White, as the Prince of Darkness, and Miss Elizabeth Bradley as the Sun God.

The story of the pageant, written by Miss Ruth McGurk, director of women's physical education, is based upon ancient mythology, and tells of the efforts of the Snow King to gain more frequent visits of the Sun to his Northland kingdom. The action begins when he sends his son, Prince Boreas to make this appeal to the Sun God.

Prince Boreas falls in love with the maiden, Karoo, guardian of the sacred altar fire of the Sun, which must be kept burning at all times if the Sun is to prevail in the world over the Prince of Darkness. However, while they are dancing, the Prince of Darkness steals to the altar and extinguishes the sacred flame.

The high priests then decide that Karoo must be sacrificed to the Sun God, if his rays are once more to shine upon the earth. However, just as Karoo is to be sacrificed, the soldiers of the Snow King's guard, led by Prince Boreas, march to her rescue. Then the northern lights dance upon the scene, and by their scintillating radiance, rekindle the sacred flame. Because of the happy outcome, Karoo's people let her depart with the prince to his kingdom in the north.

Some of the outstanding scenes of the production were presented by the reciters of the prince of darkness. This recitation contains all the swimming formations, and many novel effects were produced when the swimmers carried lights and moved in intricate patterns in almost complete darkness.

The water sprites, who appeared in a diving exhibition, also presented one of the novel features of the pageant in their dives through a burning hoop.

Dances Please

Dances which claimed the attention of the audience were the solo dance by Miss Polly Neuman, Milwaukee, as Dovkie, bird of the far north, the dance of the wild swans, and of the delicate dragon flies. The machine like marching of the soldier's of the snow king's guard proved to be one of the hits of the show.

The unusual costumes of the cast added to the spectacular character of the show, as did the sometimes wild and sometimes brilliant effects produced by a battery of colored floodlights.

MUSIC FESTIVAL BY CITY PUPILS PLEASURES CROWD

Performance of 2,200 Children Portrays Life of Washington

Threatening clouds scuttled opportunity away Wednesday afternoon when more than 2,000 Appleton school children presented the picturesque and dramatic story of the life of George Washington in song and pageantry before a crowd of 5,000 spectators in the sheltered wings of Wilson Junior high school.

The temporary bleachers forming a circular amphitheater on the west side of the building were completely filled with people by the time the high school band had finished its preliminary concert to the program. People crowded to the front seats in the center of the amphitheater, wrapped in blankets as a protection against the wind, children filled the smaller benches toward the front, while others viewed the program from the sidewalks or in cars parked closely to the bleachers.

To keep the wind from blowing the music sheets away high school orchestra and band students, who

ASK PERMISSION TO CURTAIL BUS SERVICE IN CITY

Power Company Also Wants to Cut Its Schedule to Neenah and Menasha

Application for changes in bus routes and schedules was made by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company before the Public Service commission of Wisconsin at a hearing conducted by Andrew R. MacDonald of the commission at city hall Thursday.

The power company is asking to change its interurban service from Neenah to Kaukauna at 30-minute to an hourly schedule during the off-peak periods of the day and evening, and to reduce its service in Appleton from 20-minute to 30-minute trips during the idle hours.

If the change is granted the 9, 10, 11, 12 and 1 o'clock buses leaving Neenah during the day, and the 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 o'clock buses in the evening would be discontinued. The Kaukauna schedule would lose the same trips, in addition to those at 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and 7 o'clock in the evening.

M. F. Crowley, Menasha city attorney, voiced the objection of the Menasha council to the reduction to the hourly run on the interurban line.

Points to Loss

A. K. Ellis, vice president and general manager of the power company, explained to the examiner that during the past year the company took a loss of $17,000 on its bus service. He stated that if the request for the reduction in schedule is not granted it will be necessary either to increase fare or discontinue bus service completely.

The proposed change in the Appleton schedule would mean that from 8:30 to 11:45 in the morning, from 1:40 to 3:10 in the afternoon, and from 6:40 to 11:50 in the evening buses would run on a 30-minute rather than a 20-minute schedule.

A number of route changes were requested. The power company sought permission to run the Neenah-Kaukauna bus over W. Foster-st. and S. Onondaga-st. instead of Madison-st. and to reverse the direction of travel of the bus which goes around the Onondaga-st. Wisconsin-ave. and Richmond-st. loop before going to Neenah. The list of changes also included a new route, over Mill-st. in Menasha, which would supplant the service formerly furnished over Commercial-st. in Neenah and Washington and Tayco-sts. in Menasha.

Permission to drop several extra service trips was also asked.

Well Received

Applause acclaimed the tableau that showed Washington and his aide in colorful Colonial costume visiting Betsy Ross as Mistress Ross held up the new flag with its thirteen stars in a complete circle, while one of the most effective of the pantomimes was the scene which showed the silent bowed heads of Washington and his ragged men in prayer at Valley Forge. The fifth tableau portrayed nine men as he took his oath, April 30, 1789.

Climaxing with the colorful inaugural ball, the most charming tableau were the three groups of dancers in billowing gowns, white wigs and black breeches. In gorgeous costume, the gowns of rose, yellows and pinks formed a picturesque scene in the ball tableau in which dancers performed on the grass in the foreground and on the stage, entering first with the state virgin and then the frolicsome Virginia reel one either side of the stage, with graceful movements of the Colonial waltz concluding the dance numbers on the central stage.

The program ended with the cantata singing, "Salute the Flag," and the ensemble chorus of the "Star Spangled Banner."

INFLATION NOT THREATENED BY CONGRESS BILL

Goldsborough Measure Does Not Commit Federal Reserve to Plan

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Although Europe is again bewildered by the credit expansion policy of the United States, particularly the passage of the Goldsborough bill by the house of representatives, there is not the slightest reason for any concern over money inflation. The belief here is that speculators in gold exchange abroad will take advantage of any excuse to attempt to sell American dollars short.

The important thing is that nothing in the legislation proposed by Representative Goldsborough commits the federal reserve system to any compulsory measures. Actually it is as if the house of representatives had passed a resolution expressing the opinion that it would be a good thing if prosperity could be restored. What the Goldsborough bill does is to emphasize a trend of opinion which has been growing for many years, that the dollar should be stabilized in its purchasing power in relation to commodity prices.

Economists differ as to the practicability of such steps by any one nation, but if congress should indicate its approval of the idea in principle it would serve to give the movement an emphasis which it has long lacked.

Yardstick of Prices

Basically the bill brings up the question: What should be the yardstick of prices? Should it be gold alone or should gold itself be valued in terms of an average of all commodity prices?

The ramifications of the whole plan are not clear and never have been, though its sponsors have from time to time insisted that the federal reserve system through its control of credits could automatically raise or diminish the level of commodity prices. While not artificially endeavoring to control prices, the federal reserve system does nevertheless by its purchases of government securities in the open market make available funds to the banks, which in turn lend them for business and commerce, thus presumably stimulating the flow of goods to market. The criticism usually made of all these plans is that they are merely stimulants designed to make credit more accessible, but that actually they do not aid consumption except to the extent that it may have been retarded purely by reason of credit stringency.

The Goldsborough bill is indicative, on the other hand, of another trend. Congress is restless about the economic situation and while determined, of course, to balance the budget, it does not see clearly beyond that step what other measures have to be taken to bring about re-employment of labor. There is renewed discussion of a public works program to be regarded not as a current expenditure but as a public debt transaction, though this has not as yet crystallized.

Board Frowns on Bill

The federal reserve board does not like the Goldsborough bill, of course, because the board has maintained throughout that it must have freedom of action. When the bill gets to the senate it will be opposed by a group that has insisted from the beginning that there must be no tinkering with policies that ought to be discretionary and which ought to be subject to change overnight, depending upon new circumstances and changed conditions.

Tortured, Robbed

Sobbing, beaten and tortured, John Todd, 80-year-old reclusive farmer, related how four masked robbers obtained his life savings of $5000 in Liberty bonds after an all night horror session in his secluded shanty when neighbors found him. He said the gang burned his feet with an old oil lamp, tied him to his bed and beat him until he revealed where his bonds were hidden. His home is 20 miles west of Steubenville, Ohio.

GAS EFFECTIVE IN KILLING OF RODENTS

Livermore, Cal.—(P)—Poison gas is being used in Alameda county to kill rodents. T. S. McGraw, in charge of the work, has found it better than poison grain.

The device to kill ground squirrels was developed by McGraw and Al Schmitt. They perfected a machine which burns straw and sulphur and forces poison gas into the ground. Tests proved it 96 per cent efficient, while grain is from 40 to 50 per cent effective.

Twelve sacks of straw are used as fuel, and the machine operates at a capacity of 40 pounds of crude sulphur a day. Several lines of hose are inserted in squirrel holes and the gas pumped in after being generated in a steel tank.

FINDS PANTS HOOKED

Los Angeles, Calif.—After his pants had been stolen from him, Edward Ellis, indignant, hurried toward the police station in a borrowed pair to report the theft. Passing a pawnshop window, he came to a startled stop. There were his pants! Police gave him 80 cents with which to redeem them.

SMALL CROPS OF HAY PREDICTED

Farmers Advance Many Reasons for Failure of Growth

BY W. F. VINSEY

Farmers in the drouth and grasshopper areas of Brown-co and in some other parts of the county said Tuesday that alfalfa, clovers and timothy will not be over one-third of a normal crop this summer. The reason for the failure of these crops, beside the drouth and pests, are close pasturing or clipping late last fall, the open winter and heavy frosts this spring, the farmers say.

Anticipating a failure of tame hay and tame pasture, many farmers planted large acreages of rye or rye mixed with sweet clover last fall, pastured these crops after the rains set in last fall and will pasture the crops again this spring or cut them for hay later in the season.

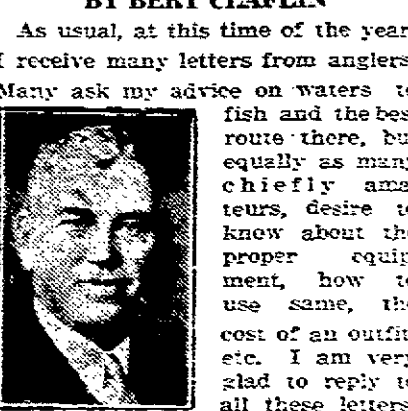

Those who did not plant rye last fall, or at least some of them expect to plant grain, as oats, barley or rye this spring to be used later for hay or pasture. A few expect to plant a mixture of grain and peas, or grain and sweet clover for hay. Others still will try Sudan grass, a mixture of Sudan grass and soybeans, or soybeans and sweet clover.

Some have expressed their intention of plowing seedings of alfalfa and clovers and planting corn.

Clafin Offers To Answer Questions From Sportsmen

BY BERT CLAFIN

As usual, at this time of the year, I receive many letters from anglers. Many ask my advice on waters to fish and the best route there, but equally as many chiefly amateurs, desire to know about the proper equipment, how to use same, the cost of an outfit, etc. I am very glad to reply to all these letters, but I ask you, fellows, don't you think you should enclose stamped envelope when writing me? Last week I received 22 letters and only one thought of enclosing postage for reply.

However, let them come along on any subject. If I personally cannot answer every one I know where to turn for the information desired, and I will get it for you. So many young enthusiasts have written me lately asking about fly fishing that I shall in this article say a few words about that phase of the game. As the trout season is about to open I trust that my remarks will be of value.

To the angler, then, who hasn't learned the art of fly casting and wants to learn, I can recommend no better method than having one who has become expert coach him for an hour or so. Then get out and practice on the water. Learn to drop your fly lightly and accurately. Do not at once try for distance. From 25 to 30 feet is about right for a beginner to start with.

Nor is it always wise to make long casts when fishing up stream. If you are wading it is much easier to hook your fish, and not so hard on your outfit when using a reasonably short line.

A fly rod and line should balance; the weight of the rod is not nearly so important. A rod that acts too stiff with a light line will act, and work fine when a time of correct weight is used.

When retrieving your fly always lift rod with a slow easy motion until line and leader clears the water and the fly is on the surface; then and not until then can you make the quick lift necessary to get your line back of you without putting a breaking strain on your rod.

Here are a few tips on how best to care for your outfit. Fly lines should be thoroughly dried after use, if you want them to last. Never leave wet lines on the reel. It is

COMMUNITY POOLS TOGETHER TO BUY BUS AND RUN IT

Members Pay Monthly Into Fund, Then Ride as Much as They Like

New York — When the Long Island Railroad, months ago, tried to close one of its branch lines that wasn't paying its way, the little village of Malba, along with other suburban settlements, bitterly fought the case through the courts.

The railroad finally won, stopped the service and left the towns far better to coil them in large loops and hang up after.

And don't leave your rod out over night. It will spoil the best bamboo ever made, and besides if your reel is on it, loading with line, the latter will become so waterlogged that you will have to dry it before you can use it decently.

Don't leave your leaders in a dampened leader box. If you do they are quite apt to part at the wrong time—when you have a nice fish on. Then you will unjustly condemn the makers.

Now just a word about tying flies to your leader. Push end of the leader through eye of the hook and form a single knot, hitch on fly inside of hook eye. Pull tight and snip off end. Learn those simple tricks and you soon will be getting more and better trout.

stranded. Today, Malba is very glad of it, for out of its defeat has come its own private transportation system, with more frequent service and lower cost.

Last month a Malbanian named Fred Fear called a village mass meeting and made a proposal. "Let's hire a bus," said he, "and all of us who commute to New York, or whose children have to ride to school, will pay a flat rate for its maintenance."

Mr. Fear thereupon became chairman of the Malba Private Coach Committee. Tickets were issued to 100 subscribing families. A Malba citizen, one Dominic Raguse, got a generous loan from a Malba banker, bought a shiny new bus and became its operator.

Now, a few days after the opening of the line, Malba families find that for an assessment of $5.25 a month the motor makes 22 round trips a day between their front doors and the railroad station in Flushing.

Three miles away. The running time is almost the same as the trains used to take, the fare is lower, and the schedule much more convenient.

Not only may all members of a family ride on a single ticket, but servants and even guests are provided free transportation. Chauffeur-Conductor Raguse already knows by sight the people who are regularly entitled to use his bus, but their guests are required to sign a card telling whom they intend to visit in the village.

Malba really values its a terrific slump when the railroad first closed its line. Twenty mortgages were foreclosed and several others called. But now that the private bus line is operating, the latter have been extended.

"It's all very simple," said Chairman Fear, "and just goes to show what people can do when they get together. I'm surprised that other districts handicapped by poor transportation don't do the same thing."

FRIENDLY ENEMIES

Algiers — Fourteen years ago France and Germany were deadly enemies. Today they are planning to establish a joint air service between Europe and South America via northern Africa, according to reports reaching this Algerian city. The route is planned by way of Marcellies, Barcelona, Casablanca, and Dakar to Buenos Aires. Both nations will share in the traffic equally if the line is organized.

Diabetics

If you have the slightest symptoms of Diabetes—such as excessive thirst, inordinate hunger, with loss of weight in spite of keen appetite, with nervousness, irritability, restlessness, anxiety over trifles and loss of strength—lose no time in reading one of the most instructive books of the day, "Back to Health from Diabetes."

It will be mailed free to anyone who will send his or her name and address to Sanborn Laboratories, 215 Sanborn Building, Battle Creek, Michigan. It describes the Sanborn home treatment for diabetes and relates the experiences of many men and women of prominence who restored themselves to health after other treatments had failed.

The book has 64 pages bound in board covers and is a mass of accurate information for those who are suffering from Diabetes.

Prices Record - breakingly Low!

Never in Goodyear experience—never in all tire history—have the prices of Goodyear Tires been as low as they are today. Don't try to guess them by what you last paid for tires. They're 50% lower than they were five years ago—30% lower than in 1929. And your money today buys the handsomest, toughest, longest-wearing Goodyear All-Weather ever built. Think of that, and ask yourself: Why buy any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more!

"DON'T LET 'EM KID YOU"

ONE of the two main reasons why more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind has always been safety.

Other tire-makers know this. They know it so well that in their natural eagerness for sales they are tempted to claim safety too.

But there's a long jump between claiming safety on paper and building it into rubber.

Ridges, grooves, knobs on the side of a tire may be ornamental, but they're about as useful as the buttons on a coat sleeve.

If YOU want grip instead of slip in the tire you buy, there's just one place to look for it.

Look at the center of the tread, where it contacts the road.

That is where other tires put continuous sled-runner ribs of rubber. That is where Goodyear puts the big, thick, deep-cut, sure-gripping blocks of the All-Weather Tread.

MARK this difference well—for it can mean to you the choice between coasting helplessly into an accident—or stopping safely when you want brakes and tires to grip tight and hold fast.

This year, Goodyear has made the world's best known safety tread even better, by combining safety and silence in the new Noiseless Non-Skid All-Weather Tread.

Don't let anybody kid you. If you want safety in the tires you buy, get safety you can see.

Buy Goodyear Tires with the All-Weather Tread—they have traction in the tread-center, where it belongs!

FORGETTING PERHAPS, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

It is written that Confucius, the great Chinese prophet, once declared: "For one word a man is often deemed to be wise, and for one word he is often deemed to be foolish; we ought to be careful indeed what we say."

Governor Roosevelt's candidacy which was hitting smoothly on all sixteen cylinders, suddenly struck trouble when he asked that help be given to "the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid." Many took the statement as a permissible flourish of kindly feeling toward the agriculturists but when a man of the pronouncedly liberal views and fair attitude of Mr. Smith declared that "this is no time for demagogues," the country began looking carefully into the facts, examining into the national record to see what justification there was for Mr. Roosevelt's statement with a result that was greatly to his discomfort.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was blarney and nothing else. This becomes all the more manifest when we examine his address at St. Paul in which he attempted to explain away the situation, or rather to justify his former statement. There he said:

"I cannot escape the conclusion that one of the essentials of a national program of restoration must be to restore purchasing power to the farming half of the country."

Excellent, governor! Marvelous! Every business man, every professional man, every industrialist worth his salt, has been saying this same thing for 2 1/2 years. So, when a candidate for the presidency says it, the national audience moves up to the edge of the chair to listen for the solution. All our minds, if not our lips, eagerly said: "Yes, yes, governor, go on."

All waited with thrilling anticipation the solution of the confusing problem that has for three years staggered, baffled and benumbed the nation.

And the governor turned to talk of something else.

What a comedown! what a collapse! No solution, just talk.

In fairness to Governor Roosevelt, who has had an honorable and praiseworthy career, and one as yet unmarked by appeals to prejudice and unsoiled with promises made for the mere purpose of support, it may be believed that the statement was made for the sake of saying something, although an indefinite something, and not to arouse the idea that this government has not already done about all that it can do for the little fellow, as we shall see.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation helps banks, it is true, but how? It gives them no present. It brings them no business. It loans them some money belonging to the government and takes as security bonds of the first water that the bank cannot sell because the bond market, through public fear, has acted somewhat like the stock market although of course not to the same extent.

This sort of assistance to a bank preserves the savings, the credit and the stability of the community in which the bank is located.

And the figures to date actually show that nearly 90 per cent of the banks assisted are located in towns of less than 25,000 population, and that three-fourths of such banks affected are located in cities of less than 10,000 population.

That all looks pretty far from Wall street.

Railroads also have been assisted in somewhat the same way, receiving government money as a loan upon collateral.

Is this helping the Big Fellow? Let us see. The railroads are about our largest employers of labor; about our greatest purchasers of raw materials. Billions of the people's money have been invested in rights-of-way, depots and the ponderous equipment necessary to operate these systems of transportation. The railroads in turn have issued several billions of bonds, a great share of which are held by insurance companies and savings banks. The income on these bonds and the final payment of principal will go to eventually pay the losses to these insurance companies on the 68 million policies of insurance now outstanding in this country.

Help the big fellow? Or is it the little fellow?

Other institutions also were authorized by law to receive loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and advances have been made to them. Mortgage companies and building and loan associations have received such advances. What for? To build a bank on Wall street? Is it the big fellow or the little fellow?

Joint stock land banks have already been advanced tens of millions so that agricultural loans would not have to be pushed and further advances made to farmers. Similar advances have already been made to agricultural credit corporations, etc.

It may have been all right for Mr. Roosevelt to mention the forgotten man but were he familiar with what has been going on in this country he would know that we have none such. Honest error is not to be ridiculed but a bid for popularity at the expense of the truth must not be countenanced.

At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1930, the national government was about 900 millions behind its expenditures.

A year later this figure had risen to 2 1/2 billions.

Examining the expenditures of our federal government in order to try and discover the reasons for the great increase in our expenditures we find two in particular, (1) veterans' relief, and (2) farm relief.

What, the big fellow? No, the little fellow.

Governor Roosevelt lost a lot of ground with that speech because people do not want to be mollified. Certainly at least the American people do not care for an all-day sucker nor a nursery bottle nipple.

The primary votes since this blunder of Mr. Roosevelt's have either been strongly against him or showed great curtailment in his popularity.

"Small sins in kings are great," runs an old proverb. They are equally great in an aspirant for the presidency.

Someone should have sent Mr. Roosevelt a copy of Confucius.

THE ROISTERER

Huey P. Long is now the big disturber in the senate.

He has jam all over his face, muckage in his hair and his thumb continually at his nose.

He seems to be a fitting successor to Tom-Tom Heflin. He is rude, discourteous, insulting. Back before the Civil war he might have made a good auctioneer at the slave block.

And yet some southern state has usually provided a voice of this kind, not necessarily a product of the primaries as claimed by many, because Pitchfork Ben Tillman, the rip-roaring firebrand from South Carolina was just such another, and he came before primaries were invented.

Whatever Senator Long's opinion and regardless of his political policies his conduct is that of an impudent boy with an inferiority complex who fears that he won't be noticed out in company. His resignation from all committee assignments in the senate because his opinion did not coincide with that of other Democrats was an empty though noisy and peevish gesture, which must have even made Senator Brookhart look up in admiration, and with the knowledge that here was competition for the gaudy, garish and blaring.

Time alone will tell whether Senator Long has any real right to be making laws for the rest of us or whether a record of scurrilous vulgarity has brought him to his present estate. The harsh attack upon him by his own brother, a leading Louisiana lawyer, throws an unpalatable family quarrel onto the national table.

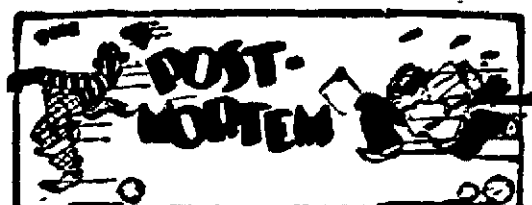

The brother says:

"I know Huey as few know him. In the course of his life he has backed up on about every sound principle I have enunciated."

"Any person can quote scriptures and rant and rave about the hardships of the common people. It takes a man with a heart and with brains to plan ways to aid the common people. Huey hasn't either. He cares as little for the interests of the common people as any man in public life. He stands for nothing which will not, in his opinion, benefit him either politically or financially."

Drastic, grating language for a brother to give the public.

Quite a departure from the calm dignity of honest legislative efforts to this abandoned fracas, this gymnastic and bellicose tussle and scuffle for the great political goal, a secure, even if a sullied, place in the charmed spotlight of publicity.

A SENATE committee voted against the manufacture of 4 per cent beer the other day. . . . it wouldn't do any good said the senators. . . . and the house finished ruining any chances of making drastic economies in the cost of national government. . . . wotnell does the house care—it's only the people's money that's being spent. . . . a speaker points out that YOU—whether you pay any kind of tax directly or otherwise—are kicking in at least two months out of every year's pay to the various American governments. . . . two months pay so that you can be well-governed. . . . one buck out of every six to Washington or Madison or Appleton. . . . (or Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh). . . . and down in Illinois, the Republicans voted for Len Small, one of the biggest political racketeers in history, and got him nominated for the governorship. . . . Len and Big Bill Thompson were real buddies. . . . Barnum was right. . . . one is born every minute. . . . but there also are some born who are smart enough to take advantage of the rest of us. . . . and we laugh at Russia! . . .

When Dee Jay Cee Reflects, He Doesn't Fool Ironwood, Michigan

Dear Jonah:

"That's Over the Week-End"

Why it should snow on May 1st and when I'm here? Did the same thing last trip only much worse. Why May Day talks by young radicals? One only twelve years of age, says: "free light, free gas," etc. Why not free love? . . .

Wonder what I did at twelve? Oh yes! Worked like hell for one buck a week. Why I don't see anybody I know? Why we peddlers differ on where to stop when here? My dealer hails me. Sees I get a quart for one buck. Swell guy—and I thought he never drank. Oh well, we all do now!

Somebody looking for a fourth hand for bridge. I win, buck and one half. Guess I'm lucky. Well, the liquor doesn't cost me anything now. Why does anybody live in Hurley? Eddie McGooertys old place. What a place in the better days! The "take" was supposed to be around $500 clear per night for an average of three good nights, and from $150 to $200 on other nights.

See padlocks being lifted as the months roll by. Have counted twenty in one short block, taking in both sides. Who furnished the money to keep these places going? You're right! The miners. And what are they doing now? Working two and three days a month at 18c per hour. Wotta life. Guess I better get back to Wisconsin. Say, you don't know how good Appleton will look to me and I'm not fooling.

—Dee Jay Cee

P. S. The morona will say "Have a successful trip, deardeer?" and being a salesman and thinking a competitor is asking me, I'll say "dandy." Now I wrote up so and so and so and so. Oh hell, I forget!

All of which eliminates the need for us trying to think today.

INDEBTED

The interest on the mortgage on the house is overdue. The grocer's writing letters threatening us that he will sue. The plumber wants his money for a washer for a tap. The Damsel Shoppe is dunning us for sister's evening wrap. But the thing that worries mother till her face is wreathed in frowns, is the fact that we're indebted for a dinner to the Browns.

We haven't paid the doctor since the market went to smash. The man who runs the laundry writes to say he needs some cash. I owe the tailor something and I hate to catch his eye; I always look the other way until he's traveled by; But the thing that worries mother isn't money that she lacks. But the fact that we're indebted for a dinner to the Blacks.

It is not for me to quarrel with the women and their ways; They've a certain code of honor and from it no one strays. Men may think their worries greater, but the social laws are stern. And the dinner you've accepted is the meal you must return.

So I sympathize with mother as she lies awake o' nights. Since for weeks we've been indebted for a dinner to the Whites.

Is This How the War Debt Problem Will Be Solved?

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CALLING A SURGEON TO CURE A COLD

New England health officer recently advised people to open their bedroom windows if they wished but to be comfortable even if they had to keep the windows closed. An alert reader thinks that is not in accord with my "theory" and asks whether it is not time for some definite understanding among us physicians and health authorities about this. That is what I've been pleading for these many years. But it is little use. You just can't get the old timers who think there is harm in drafts, dampness, sudden changes and all that, to define what they mean by "a cold" or "the common cold." So that puts me at a disadvantage, because I never can understand what they're talking about when they emit words of wisdom about the prevention of "the common cold" or "colds" in general.

Last summer a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons reported to the congress of his organization that "in order to prevent colds it is necessary that one's resistance be kept as high as possible." When this bit of free copy came through from the brotherhood of publicly-seeking surgeons, I regretted I had passed up the opportunity to attend the congress. A declaration like that clearly calls for a momentary interruption of the program by a disturbance in the audience, occasioned by a sardonic member rising to remark: "Oh, yeah? Just what do you mean by colds? Professor and what do you mean by resistance?"

Imagine a lot of brilliant surgeons—somehow surgeons are always brilliant men, important, aren't they?—imagine a gathering of such ponderous gentlemen listening to twaddle like that! But then, probably no one listened except the few unlucky fellows who had yet to read their papers. They stuck it, for otherwise they could not hope to make the front page of even the home newspaper.

I cordially agree with the New England health officer, who advised people to keep the bedroom windows open. Any bedroom one is likely to find in New England will get enough fresh air on a very cold or windy night even if every window and door is kept closed, thru seepage of air around the cracks and crevices. There is just one health precaution, or rather a safety precaution for everybody to heed. Beware of having a heater of any kind, that is one that burns fuel, in the sleeping room, unless it has proper stovepipe connection to carry products of combustion out of the house. Electric heaters consume no fuel and require no such ventilation. All other stoves or heaters require stovepipes.

Most persons sleep better with cold air to breathe, provided they have warm feet.

Probably the most refreshing and healthful way to sleep is quite nude. But that requires a comfortably warm place to sleep in.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS
Babies Have Down

Our Persian cat which we idolized was killed several weeks before the baby was born. The baby is covered with a fine down. . . . (V. S.)

Answer—All babies are, regardless of whether a cat has been a pet of the household. The down becomes practically invisible after a few months.

Electricity

For a week my system has been so touch of electricity that every time I touch a faucet or a doorknob or any metal utensil I get a shock. . . . (B. A.)

Answer—Static. Due to dryness of atmosphere.

Venison Liver

You told a correspondent you knew no reason why venison liver should not be good to eat. I have killed many deer and I have never seen a liver I'd want to eat— invariably the liver is full of blood suckers, even if the animal is perfectly healthy. . . . (Northern Michigan)

Answer—Thank you. I am happy to say I have never killed a deer or seen one killed and never shall. I assume any liver one would eat is very thoroughly cooked to make it appetizing. Thoro cooking would destroy any parasite that might be in liver.

Girls, Have Some Coffee

I am 22, disgracefully healthy, and I have a clear complexion, in spite of the fact that I usually take two cups of coffee daily. Many girls tell me this will make my complexion sallow. . . . (C. M. R.)

Answer—The girls probably learned that in the back pages of some raffish magazine. There is no truth in the notion.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES
New York — Happy Masfield, considered one of the best "popular" bass players in the country, has a passion for zipping along at a merry speed in his car.

Happy stutters, too, and, though Happy in his real name, it usually balks him when he tries to pronounce it. Some of his friends seem to think it is just a little stunt of his, but H—H—Happy says no.

He does admit, however, that his stuttering has got him out of some difficulties with speed officers.

When they stop him on the road, take a look at his license and bark questions at him, Happy begins to try to explain things.

Usually, he says, the coppers get impatient, break him off in the middle of a sentence with a warning and tell him to drive along.

Another musician on our program today is Alexander Koberline, who was scheduled for his first New York piano recital at town hall this month.

He upsets traditions of piano soloists. He did not do such things as break glassware in his childhood because of a fondness for the tinkling tunes of breakage, nor was he first taught by his mother.

Koberline was born in Kief in 1892, studied with Busoni and Silioti, but was exceedingly lazy, he recalls, and hated to practice.

"I took up music as a profession," he told me, "because I found myself incapable of doing anything else." He is, say people who know much more about music than I do, a very excellent pianist.

Wrong Number

A lady of my acquaintance who moved from Greenwich Village to the East Seventies greatly feared, for no good reason, that her new telephone number would be hooked up with the Sacramento exchange.

Just as some persons don't like black cats, she didn't like the idea of telephone callers asking her, "Is this Sacramento 2—so and so?"

The aversion was so serious that she took the matter up with the telephone company, and they, obligingly, gave her an alternate exchange number—right there in a hotbed of Sacramentos.

So informative, this annual antiquities exposition. For instance, who'd have known that, in pre-Civil war days when the Harvard and Yale crews clashed on the Thames at New London, John Harvard's boatmen wore straw hats and the oarsmen of Old Eli had on small cloth caps?

Yet a brilliantly colored engraving at the show evidenced this appalling fact.

ALLIES MAKE GAIN
On May 5, 1918, French and British troops, on the Loire front, advanced nearly half a mile on a front a mile in width during a day of intense fighting.

The advance constituted the principal Allied gain since the German drive began in March and the news was hailed in Paris and London with cheers.

Affiliated commanders, however, still regarded the situation on the western front as grave. They estimated that the German reserve included 750,000 men. This reserve still gave the Germans the balance of power on the front and enabled them to start a new major offensive whenever and wherever they chose.

Only four American divisions, the First, Second, Twenty-sixth and Forty-second, were regarded as fit for duty on active sectors of the front, but others were being trained rapidly and it was estimated that 10 divisions, each equal to two German divisions, would be ready by June 1.

The 11 new divisions purchased by the White House ought to come in handy for use in taking the present to the numerous economy conferences with the Democrats.

1,046 POSTAL WORKERS FACE LOSS OF JOBS

Bill Calling for 10 Per Cent Cut Would Hit Wisconsin Employees

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—A total of 1,046 postal employees in Wisconsin will lose their jobs, 315 rural routes in the Badger state will be consolidated and 535 others will have service reduced to tri-weekly schedules, if the senate adheres to its recent decision and compels a 10 per cent reduction in the 1933 appropriation for the post office department.

Of these 1,046 employees, 35 are assistant postmasters; 221 are clerks; 411 city carriers; 19 are village carriers; 49 railway postal clerks; 4 vehicle employees, and 315 are rural carriers.

In the large cities, the department states that carrier service in the business sections will be reduced from four to two daily deliveries while in the residential districts the 10 per cent cut would mean a reduction in deliveries from two to one each day.

In many small villages, carrier delivery would have to be dispensed with and the old custom of going to the postoffice for the mail would be necessarily revived.

Sen. Tasker L. Odell of Nevada, chairman of the subcommittee on the post office-treasury departments appropriation bill, announces, in connection with these figures that he will soon ask the senate to reconsider the 10 per cent cut order.

The treasury department's custom service will be particularly hard hit if the cut goes through.

The two departments, post office and treasury, are combined in one appropriation bill.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"TAURUS"

If May 6th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:20 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Vitiating and not helpful influences will tend to make May 6th a fretful, disappointing day. Pretty misunderstandings are scheduled for the home. These will soon be forgotten if the old say, "least said, soonest mended" is heeded. The real bright spot appearing in your life at this time is the beginning of a new romance.

Children born on this May 6th will be real on-the-ground sort of boys and girls, and will be well able to cope with the world into which they have been born. There will be a spice of pepper, a sprinkling of humor, a dash of adventure and a goodly portion of common sense in their make-up.

Born on May 6th, the world is a stage to you, upon which you are an actor playing your own life drama before an ever changing audience and in ever changing roles. You have no fixed personality, but have qualities to match those you come across. You are able to assume at will a professional manner or a company voice. It is difficult for others or even for yourself to know when the real you is on the stage. You throw yourself into all parts with so much heart and soul that your pseudo-selves assume very realistic proportions. At all times, in all places, with all people, and in all moods, you never forget your "savior vivre."

You are very intelligent, although not in the least intellectual. You are too earthly-minded to ever be a high-brow. Your mind is full of plans and schemes, both practical and impractical. Your serious energies will be applied to their promotion. It is not likely that you will ever "stay put" for any length of time. You are inclined to count your chickens before they are hatched and are sometimes let down through overoptimism.

It is more important for you to be loved than to love. You must absolutely be everything to a man or woman or else be nothing. In this respect you are much the egoist.

Successful People Born on May 6th:

1. William Bowie, engineer.
2. Oscar W. Underwood, senator.
3. William Edmund Scripps, president Scripps Motor Company.
4. Jeff Davis, United States senator.
5. Edward Thomas Devine, lecturer and author.
6. Robert E. Peary, arctic explorer.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of saline, mineral water, or laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and the more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to taking the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. See at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

JAILED FOR FAKING AUTO LICENSE PLATES

Marshfield—(P)—After four years of success, Melvin Leinwender's license plate racket has failed him. Tuesday he was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail when he pleaded guilty of operating his automobile without license or registration. The car had Illinois plates, 1928 vintage. For four years, he said, he had repainted them successfully to coincide with the coloring of the current Illinois plates.

FESTAL WEDDING GARB LOSES HOLD IN INDIA

Calcutta—(P)—India's habit of expensive wedding ceremonies and celebrations is giving way to something less costly.

Members of all classes in India frequently begin married life under crushing burdens of debt incurred in banqueting guests at their weddings and paying for priestly offices.

Abdul Hamid, Lahore student, refused, however, to incur such extravagance. He found a bride willing to forego show and they were married at a cost of about fifteen cents, whereas a couple in their station ordinarily would spend about $200.

Numerous similar instances are reported.

WINGLESS AIRPLANES

London—The first wingless airplane ever to make a successful flight has been taken up by Juan de la Cierva, inventor of the autogiro. The plane is said to be small enough to fit into an automobile garage and able to take off from a backyard. It has windmill vanes similar to the autogiro, and needs only a few feet for a takeoff.

Do you inhale?

"Why bring that up?"

—the cigarette trade asks!

FOR years there has been generally a striking avoidance of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it has solved the problem! It gives you the protection you want...because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Wriston Is Speaker At Club Meet

ADVOCATING that United States take the responsibilities that come with power and cease to hide behind meaningless phrases, Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the local branch of American Association of University Women Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. George Banta, Jr., Menasha, advocated as constructive measures that a definite spokesman be dispatched to Geneva; that United States take definite steps toward disarmament; an economic boycott for a nation an aggressor in war; a more businesslike manner of handling national debt; standardization of work currency; and submission of acceptable changes in constitution of the League of Nations.

Dr. Wriston said that United States is the most powerful of nations, and like any great leader, the more power she has, the less independence she enjoys. He likened our country to a great business handling goods, in this case exports, imports, and currency exchanges, which has not yet learned the value of harmonious unity in dealing with competitors. United States is dependent on her world neighbors as never before, he stated, and prosperity is dependent on world prosperity. He said that the business integrity of any firm would be questioned should it sell goods and then advance the money to pay for those goods, and then went on to how that this is what United States did when she exported goods and then loaned money, taking bonds which were no more than I. O. U.'s the debtors had no intention of redeeming.

His Commercialism

Diplomacy today is commercialism, the speaker continued, and United States' foreign policy must change to a sound business policy, and the word "foreign" must be dropped for the whole world has become a domestic problem. The field of rationalization changes as does the field of physics, Dr. Wriston said, and just as those who found our country recognized the necessity for interstate commerce, we must now deal in close harmony with foreign countries if we are to prosper.

The scholarship committee reported at this meeting, showing that a profit of $290 had been made on the benefit motion picture, "Arrow-smith." Miss Margaret Abraham gave a report on the survey made concerning girls awarded scholarships in the past. She said that 17 scholarships have been granted, and all but one of these girls have finished college or are studying. Miss Adela Klum reported on the findings on which the committee base the selection of the girl for the scholarship award. The selection is made on the basis of scholarship, personality, necessity of financial aid, and ability to win a college degree. Two girls have met these requirements, but the winner will not be named until award day at Appleton high school. The association voted to help both girls, and to give two $100 awards to two worthy high school graduates. The other $100 will be sent to the National Fellowship fund. The organization voted a $100 loan to a local girl who is a junior at Lawrence college, who could not continue in college without aid.

Parents Are Entitled To Child Love

BY ANGELO PATRI

Parents have rights. Often, in the face of their struggles with the children, this fact looks doubtful. If one suppresses a child at once one's conscience upbraids him. Yet there is a limit to the noise and disorder an adult can stand. If one refuses requests for expensive things one is at once disturbed lest the child is being deprived of essentials. There is a limit to what we can give children. To go beyond it is to court disaster for ourselves and for them. In short, parents have rights that have to be maintained if the home is to stand. Just what are a parent's rights and where is the limit?

When one has to ask that question it is clear that things have gone beyond a reasonable limit. The usual everyday good sense that rules the world has been ignored and the children have been permitted to overstep the bounds of healthy respect and appetite. The parents have stepped aside and allowed the children to go forward. Leadership has been transferred. Leadership is the first right of parenthood. In fact it is the first duty.

When children are very little they are helpless and their helplessness is appealing. We like to make them happy, to see them laugh and play. We know that we are able by the movement of a finger to control their actions. We do not even move the finger but let them have our own sweet way. They take it and thrive amazingly until we discover in consternation, that they are a stride ahead of us and we will have to use the full strength of our strong right arm to hold them. That must be done nevertheless because leadership is a right and a duty.

This means that a child is to follow its parent until the time comes that he has sufficient strength to go forward on his own. Obedience, willingness to be lead, willingness to listen and to try to get the parents' point of view, willingness to cooperate, are attitudes that parents have the right to expect. They can have them provided they have all along taken the trouble to maintain them. They can have the full enjoyment of all their rights of parenthood if they have seen them in the light of so many duties to be performed.

A parent has the right to the love and understanding of his children. To their co-operation and obedience, to be free from worry about their conduct, to be free from annoyance within the home, to the confidence that children will not spend what they have not got, to the certainty that they will do what they say they will do, to the trust and the loyalty and the faith and integrity of his children.

Those are a parent's right. But a parent has to pay for them in terms of duty done. He will never win his rights in his children until they put their trust in him. They will trust him only when experience with him teaches them that they are justified in doing so.

In other words, a parent's rights are limited only by the affection he is able to inspire in his children.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

PARTIES

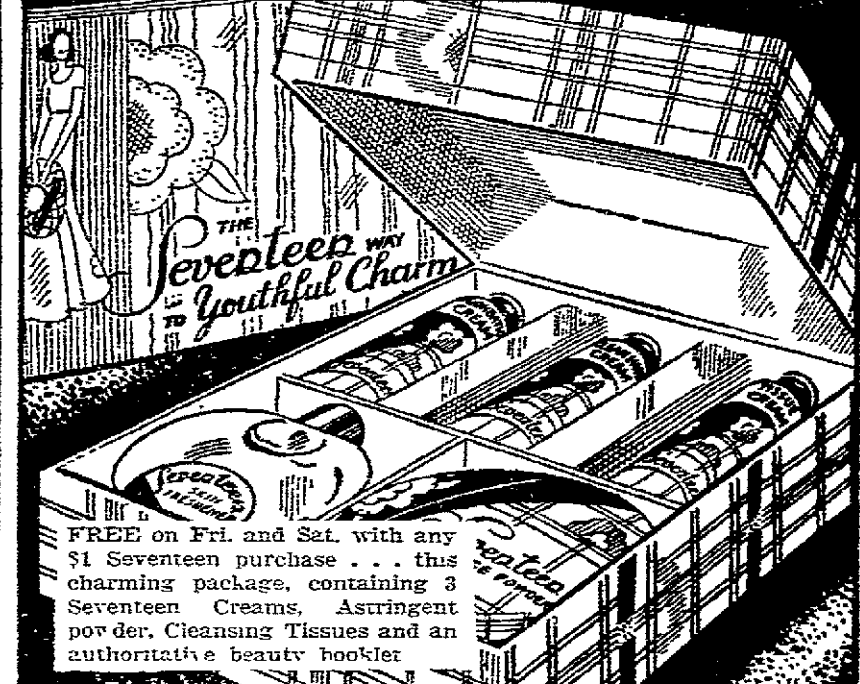

A dinner followed by bridge entertained the Playmore Bridge club Wednesday night in the Blue room of Conway hotel. Covers were laid for eight persons, Mrs. C. Crowe being the guest. Prizes were won by Mrs. Grace Gieschow and Miss Marie Trilman. This was the last meeting of the club until fall.

Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary church will hold a card party at 230 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Bridge and schafkopf will be played.

the STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

RUTH RAYNOR KISSES RUTH.

Ruth hesitated as Joe Raynor asked her to slip Sally's engagement ring on her own finger. The gesture was so much more personal than he knew. Finally, she picked up the small, shining band, and let it slip over her knuckle. It was a little too big. Sally's hands were slightly larger than hers, she remembered. Sally had always disliked that thought. The memory of it made her smile.

"Let Sally choose the next ring," Ruth said, handing the ring back to him again.

"I'm afraid that I can't afford the one she wants."

"Then tell her. She will listen to reason."

"I know she will." He smiled and there was affection for the absent Sally in the smile. "But she will be disappointed. I'll manage some day."

Ruth didn't answer. Men usually did manage some way for girls who played Sally's rules.

She snapped her thoughts in two. "Are office visits still two dollars?" She was opening her pocketbook. Her roll of bills was growing very small. "I'll make the first payment on the ring, and then I must go."

"Ruth, don't be dumb," the young doctor was saying. "You know I wouldn't charge you. What has come over you?"

"Nothing but a cold," she told him. Her eyes laughed. So did her lips. He would never know the effort that it took to be so gay and merry and nonchalant. "You can't doctor all of your fiancée's family free. Don't begin with me. If you won't let me pay I'll go to somebody who will. Besides, I'm not in the school system any more so that let's me out there. Now will you take my money, or won't you?"

"No." He shook his head. "Buy some stockings."

"I don't need any. Nancy Becker gave me a dozen pairs of stockings that look as though they came from moonshine or something of the sort."

"...or a hat."

"It would only make a down payment on one. I won't take the pills unless you accept the money."

She wondered why she was making such a commotion about it. She knew that she really did not want him to take it. That she would be disappointed if he did. Yet she was giving him no alternative other than to take it. Dimly she sensed that she was trying to keep the conversational ball moving. She dreaded a silence. She didn't want to leave. Yet she knew that she must. He was putting the pills in a small gray envelope, and labeling them.

"How often do I take them?" she asked. He didn't answer. His eyes were watching her. Peculiarly. With a look that frightened her a little. Frightened her, yet thrilled her. Made her heart miss a beat and then race a little faster to catch up.

"How often do I take them?" she asked to still its pounding.

"Before meals and one at bed time." He was handing them to her. His hand touched hers. And suddenly she was in his arms. His arms, hard, strong, were pressing her closely against him. His lips had found hers.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

TIRED BUSINESS MAN MUST COOPERATE IN MAKING HOME A GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

Dear Virginia Vane: I married with high hopes that mine was going to be the perfect marriage and today I must confess that it's just another mistake, although I've done my best to make it perfect. I married a woman with little imagination and no real zest for life. I like to be entertained and amused and my wife seems to think that life is just one job of housework after the other. We live out in the country and I come home every night, tired and worn out, to find a silent dull companion. I have never been unfaithful to her—never even taken an evening off a week to be with men friends. I cannot hold myself responsible for this state of affairs. I send love my wife but feel I can't endure this existence much longer.

DISCOURAGED HUSBAND.

It takes two people to make bright chatty conversation after a day's hard work—and since you wife's day is presumably as arduous as your own, it's not to be expected that she should be the life and soul of the party every evening.

If she lives out in the country with a house on her hands which has to be kept clean and run properly, maybe she hasn't time to think up snappy cracks to keep you laughing when you arrive all tired out and ready to be entertained. If she hasn't many friends around her, maybe it's difficult for her to find material for amusing conversation. And if your attitude is that as the tired business man you deserve a good breezy show about dinner time—perhaps you're not helping toward perfect marriage as much as you think you are.

Maybe if you came home with a knowledge of your own responsibility in the matter—with a clear understanding that you must buck yourself up sufficiently to start off the little woman in good spirits—you wouldn't be treated to long dull silences. Maybe the other half of the matrimonial game is just as bored with your brand of chatter as you are with hers.

And what harm would it do if you had an occasional evening to yourself? Just possibly that might give you the extra kick you need to put you in a good form for a few evenings. You'd have more to talk about—you'd have less the sense of endless routine and deadly monotony. An evening off for both of you might make you two just that much more interested in each other.

It's too bad you wife hasn't any imagination—but on the other hand it would marred the high-spirited imaginative type of woman who now seems your ideal. She might not have suited you half as well as you imagine. You probably married your Wife because certain qualities in her fitted in well with your tastes and temperament and those very qualities may make it impossible for her to be what you've begun to want her to be.

Just begin to cooperate in this affair. Don't come home feeling discouraged and miserable because your side partner is not going to be the bright and amusing companion you desire. Come home with the determination to help her be all that you want her to be.

Most women can get animated about something or other if they have a really responsive interested audience. The most successful and happy husbands in the world are the ones who know how to take an interest in all the little incidents which have made up the drama of a housewife's day. If you can cultivate that sort of response and understanding the little woman may surprise you by coming to life and developing as a real companion.

Give the other half a break. Don't expect too much. Help wherever and whenever you can to raise the general spirits of the household. Keep your own discouragement and tired out feeling as much out of sight as possible and thus you won't encourage your spouse to wilt. A little insincerity on both sides is demanded to keep things going.

CREAM ENTIRE BODY AT NIGHT AFTER ILLNESS

BY ALICIA HART

Don't spend too much time looking at yourself woefully in the mirror, if you are recovering from influenza or any other spring illness. Just do something about it!

In the first place, the skin on your whole body may feel terrifically dry and tense. Take tepid baths, not too hot, rinse with cold water and then take some inexpensive cold cream and give your whole body a massage. There are theatrical cold creams that are very expensive and suffice for this type of treatment. Apply the cold cream at night, don't wipe off any of it, wear an old night gown and climb in to sleep.

By morning your skin will have absorbed all the cream. It will feel relaxed and will have lost some of that distressing flaky, dry look. Do this twice or three times a week until your skin gets thoroughly normal again.

Now begin on your face and neck. If your whole body is that much in need of oil, your face will be doubly so.

Don't wash it for a few days with soap and water. Use cleansing creams instead, and facial refreshers for rinsing. Get a little vial of facial oil. Many of the best beauticians make a lovely, soft oil. If your poor face feels as if it is about to crack, set your bottle of oil in warm water and have it tepid when you apply it. Massage it in, gently, and wipe it off sparingly, for the more you can leave on the more it seeps in and softens your skin.

Just at the edge of your nose, where it joins your face, you probably feel it is about to crack off. Use white vaseline around the nostrils every evening for a week. This has a softening effect that makes up for the disagreeableness of using it.

For your lips at night, get one of the white lipsticks, made just for cracked lips. Use it generously every night, put it on again morning and leave it on until you wake up for the day.

CAPITALISM ON TRIAL, CLAIM

"Capitalism is on trial, and on the issue of this trial may depend the whole future of western civilization."

Dean Wallace B. Donham of the Harvard School of Business Administration makes this statement in the closing paragraphs of "Business Looks at the Unforeseen," a thoughtful, conservative discussion of the current depression just issued by Whitcomb House.

The depression, says Dean Donham, "is not merely a business cycle, but... is a culmination of far-reaching and persistent changes, calling for reappraisal of the effects of the industrial revolution on the world." To wait for things to

MAYOR URGES PAY CUT FOR CITY WORKERS

Reduction Would Have to Be Voluntary, Sande Tells Council

Neenah—Pointing to the wave of depression sweeping over the country, Mayor George W. Sande at a council meeting here last night, proposed a voluntary salary reduction for all city officials. The proposal was referred to the finance committee for investigation, with instructions to report at the next council meeting on May 18.

Mayor Sande pointed out that it would be impossible for the council to order salaries cut now because they had already been set for the next year and could not be lowered during the present terms of the officials. He said, however, that various city departments had been discussing the proposed voluntary reduction and that many were in favor of the move. He said the police and fire commission had broached the subject of a cut to the men under supervision and that they were willing to accept the plan. This department alone would effect a saving of $2,000 if the voluntary cut was made, the mayor said.

It was further pointed out by the mayor that the school board has shown the way for all city departments by cutting salaries of its workers 7 1/2 per cent, to become effective next September. It should affect all departments.

The fourth of July and bi-centennial celebration, for which the city had pledged $700 to the American Legion to carry out its program, was discussed with an effort to devise some manner to raise the money through public subscription or other means so as not to tax the citizens. Mayor Sande pointed out that the city was spending that much money in these depressing times. He was opposed to spending money for fireworks to be shot off in a few minutes. He suggested a one day "old time" picnic at one of the parks.

Alderman Explains

Alderman Vandervalk, member of the Legion committee, explained that arrangements had been made for an outdoor motor boat class presented by the National Outboard Motor Boat association, which would bring some of the fastest boats and drivers in the middle west for a one day series of races, which, with proper trophies, would cost in the neighborhood of $300. He said there also would be medals for swimming events; a parade of the twin cities' half-million dollar boats; fireworks at a cost of about $100; the high school bands which would cost about $200.

Alderman Herziger moved that the council agree to go on record as favoring appropriation of $700 to the Legion, providing the money cannot be raised in some other manner. All voted for the appropriation but Martens. A committee from the council will be appointed to raise as much money as possible in some manner to assist in defraying the general expense of the celebration.

The finance committee, to which was referred the matter of financing the turnabout at the end of E. Forest-ave, land for which was offered by Ernst Mahler in exchange for a piece of street joining his property, reported against the proposition. Alderman Herziger moved that the proposition be halted and Mr. Mahler notified that so far as the city was concerned the street was finished. The motion carried unanimously.

Allow Bills

The finance committee reported on 241 bills totaling $25,322.85 of which $6,582.92 was for sewer contract work; $5,255.30 for water main work at Oak Hill cemetery; $1,008.65 for insurance; $1,395.65 for lighting; and $4,086.55 for poor relief. Monthly reports of the justices, police department and the unemployment committee, the latter showing an expenditure of $1,573.11, were accepted.

Petitions for sidewalks on E. Canal-st, between N. Greenwood and Walnut-st, and on E. Meyer-ave, between Main and Whitlow-st, and grading on Grovet-st between Lowden-blvd and Cecil-st, were referred to committees to report at next meeting.

An invitation asking the city officials to take part in the annual Memorial day parade and for an appropriation of $100 which would defray expenses of the annual observance of the day, was received and approved. The council also accepted an invitation from the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs of the twin cities, to a dinner meeting next Thursday evening at which Walter Corrigan of Milwaukee, will speak.

Alderman Martens moved to have an ordinance regarding parking of cars and trucks. Mayor Sande advised the alderman that such an ordinance was contained in a group of new laws being drafted by City Attorney O'Leary and which are to be presented to the committee on ordinances and printing at a meeting early next week.

The street, highway and bridge committee recommended selling a piece of city property on Martens-st for $25 to E. J. Blaney.

REELECT HEADS OF BANK GROUP

Winnebago County Associa- tion Has Meeting at Neenah

Neenah—All officers of the Winnebago County Bankers' association were reelected Wednesday evening at a meeting held at the Valley Inn following a 6:30 dinner.

E. R. Williams, vice president of Oshkosh First National bank, is president; LeMont Miller, of the Winnebago Union bank, vice president; Ted Frenz, Jr., of the New American bank of Oshkosh, secretary and treasurer.

The meeting was attended by a group of 75 members who listened to an interesting talk on "Rising Cost of Government, a Problem and a Challenge," given by Chester D. Seftenberg of Oshkosh, former Wisconsin state assemblyman, now of the Oshkosh First National bank. Taxation was blamed for the rising cost, according to Mr. Seftenberg, who offered lowered expenditures, better budget systems, adequate accounting methods, consolidation and concentration of overlapping and superfluous government units and functions and protection of public credit by limitations on borrowing as remedies to the tax problem which is striking viciously at the foundation of American civilization, and the home.

Entertainment features were presented by a group of town of Algoma young people who rendered a program of vocal and instrumental numbers.

FULL PARDONS URGED FOR 4 IN HONOLULU

Washington Law - makers Relieved That "Honor Slayers" Are Liberated

said Representative Thatcher (R., Ky.) sponsor of a petition for pardon sent Governor Judd.

"The stigma that attaches to that sentence ought to be removed," was the comment of Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.).

"I think a pardon is due," came from Senator Bingham (R., Conn.). "The news is great," responded Representative Crisp (D., Ga.). "The one hundred sentence should be completely annulled by President Hoover," said Representative Britten (R., Ill.).

But an entirely different reaction came from Senator Reed (R., Pa.) "I think Governor Judd has made a very serious mistake which will turn up to plague the future administration of justice in Hawaii."

MOVE FOR PARDONS

Honolulu—(P)—A move for an outright pardon for Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three naval men convicted of lynching Joseph Kahahawai was pressed today after the quartet had fully satisfied the law by spending one hour in custody of the territorial high court.

Sentenced yesterday in a surprise court session to ten years in prison for manslaughter, they were immediately granted a commutation of sentence to one hour by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd.

With the case closed, the New York society woman was expected to leave Hawaii soon to join her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and his wife, Mrs. Massie, in the United States.

The governor's order also apparently paved the way to dropping retrial of the four surviving men accused of assaulting Mrs. Thalia Massie last September.

The commutation also saved the navy men from having their service records marred by imprisonment. Captain Edward Wortman, Massie's commander, said federal action would have been necessary to clear their records had they actually been committed to prison, even for an hour.

Harry Hewitt, attorney general, said the commutation, did not constitute a pardon and did not restore to the four their civil rights. Clarence Darrow, veteran chief of defense counsel, said the "federal action might be taken to restore them; we are satisfied."

Doubts Hoover Power

Hewitt said he had not determined whether they could be pardoned by the president but added that such action would be "an extraordinary procedure." A move for an outright pardon was begun by a group of citizens.

In commuting the sentence, Governor Judd announced he had acted upon the petition of the four defendants and their counsel asking executive clemency. The governor also made public a petition bearing the names of 104 members of congress asking an unconditional pardon for the four. The name of Representative Thatcher of Kentucky, Massie's senatorial grandfather, was prominent. The four were convicted last Friday after a long trial climaxed by Massie's testimony he shot Kahahawai last Jan. 8 upon hearing the native confess participating with four other men in a criminal assault upon his wife. The first trial of the five ended in a jury disagreement and the group was awaiting a new trial when Kahahawai was slain.

Mrs. Fortescue, mother of the attack victim, and the three naval men will probably leave Hawaii and the four men awaiting retrial on Mrs. Massie's charges. They will not be retried as a result of the commutation.

Retrial Not Likely

Darrow announced he would advise Mrs. Massie not to proceed in the retrial and an authoritative source disclosed that the territory probably would not bring up the case again. Without Mrs. Massie, the complaining witness, the prosecution could not proceed.

Coming on the fifth day after a racially mixed jury had convicted the four defendants, clemency, the commutation put an end to a case which had threatened to drag along in the courts for months or perhaps years. Darrow had been mapping an appeal.

The whole thing was over one hour after the defendants had been called into court. With Darrow and George S. Leisure of the defense, and Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley present, Judge Charles S. Davis pronounced the sentences.

In each case the sentence, as required by law, was not more than ten years at hard labor in Oahu island prison.

There was no demonstration. None besides authorities, defendants attorneys, newspaper men and a few friends knew of the move and there was no police guard.

PARENTS ELATED

Chicago—(P)—The father of Mrs. Thalia Massie and the mother of Mrs. Granville Fortescue were speeding back east today, jubilant over the order commuting the sentences of the four principals in the Massie-Fortescue manslaughter case.

News of the commutation reached Major Granville Fortescue and Mrs. Grace Bell as they arrived here last night en route to Honolulu. They immediately decided to return east instead of going on to Hawaii.

"This case shows that justice has a humane as well as legal side," said Major Fortescue. "... I am very proud of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie as a son-in-law. I believe the navy is proud of him and so, I believe, are the people of America."

Mrs. Bell, his mother-in-law, nearly collapsed, said it was simply superb. Her son is in Washington. Major Fortescue is in New York.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1932 By Cons. Press
New York—(CPA)—Heading the receiving line at Atlanta today is Warden A. C. Alderholdt, who, according to all available information, is a conservative most, not given to overdoing himself in hospitality to distinguished guests like Al Capone.

This is pertinent for the day, as Mr. Alderholdt's predecessor, John W. Snook, quit the prison in 1929 over this same issue. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, then of the department of justice, had planted investigators in the prison. There were reports that Mr. Snook had been exceedingly nice to such notables as Earl Carroll, Nicky Arnstein, Mennie Kessler and Bill Dwyer, the race track magnate. Mr. Snook resigned April 1, 1929, and Mr. Alderholdt took over the prison June 5 of that year. Since 1914, there has been quite a lot of trouble at Atlanta, over charges of favoritism to star boarders, drug rings and the like.

All of Mr. Alderholdt's 25 years of prison administration work have been spent at Atlanta, as record clerk, foreman of construction, acting warden and warden. Since the retirement of the former warden, Atlanta has been under close scrutiny by Attorney-General Mitchell and by Senator Bates, federal director of prisons. At the headquarters of the Prison Association of New York, it was stated today that complaints of favoritism had ceased since Mr. Alderholdt's appointment. He is described as having qualities of aloofness, important in maintaining detachment in mingling with such affluent and clubby visitors as Atlanta receives.

Professor Edwin R. A. Seligman, endorsing Senator Wagner's "emergency peace plan," could buttress any plan, for war or peace, from his own writings. So far as a hasty appraisal can be made, the 71-year-old Columbia savant has written more books, belonged to more learned societies and hidden farther on a bicycle than any other American economist. At the same time, qualifying as a crack piano player and rarely working after sundown. His evenings go to the opera, his friends or maybe reading French novels.

While the aftermath of learned discourses on economics, during the boom years, is somewhat disquieting to many economists, Professor Seligman fares rather better than most of them. In 1927, he did some rather neat long distance prophesying about the debt muddle, as it later turned out, in which he was in sharp disagreement with Mr. Mellon. He was not among the yes men of the new era and he took a square look at the world complications and the necessity of controlled output and distribution brought by the machine.

His square beard and pince nez have headed into most important civic doings hereabouts for the last 40 years. He was a member of the committee of one hundred, the committee of ten and the committee of fifteen which, at different times, tried to fix things up in New York.

None of the committees seemed to hit the lucky number, the double-o of human frailties always bobbing up at the wrong time, but that wasn't Dr. Seligman's fault, and now that his beard is white, his ardor does not wane. Only recently he has been down in Cuba, helping to straighten out Senor Machado's economic snarls. He joined the Columbia university faculty 33 years ago.

New York gave a generous hand to Eugene Goossens, Cincinnati symphony orchestra conductor, conducting at the Metropolitan Opera house last night. When the Flemish-Belgian maestro, transplanted to America via England, made his debut here in 1930, critics seemed somewhat puzzled by his "neo-classicism," but this time it appeared that conservative New York was catching up with him. In this connection it seems that Ohio is somewhat of a trail blazer in chromatic music—witness also Nikolai Sokoloff, brilliant conductor of the Cleveland symphony who first disturbed the musical stand-patters and then made them like it.

Many Problems In Filming Of "Strange Interlude"

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Hollywood—(CPA)—Mike the microphone never worked harder in his life than he has worked for the past couple weeks on the M-G-M lot making the scenes for Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude."

When the studio bought the play and began turning it into a picture, everybody concerned began to realize that representing thoughts on the screen was no cinch of a job.

Just how would you represent on the screen a thought which crosses the mind of a character, putting the thought into actual words which the audience will hear and yet having the character speak out loud? You can see it's rather a problem.

On the stage the transition from dialogue to thought was indicated by a complete suspension of movement on the part of the characters so long as the thought sequence continued. But in a motion picture this complete suspension of movement would annoy an audience instead of interesting it. What to do, what to do?

They are solving the problem by means of one of the cleverest mechanical achievements the talkies have known so far. The means chosen is a highly intricate double recording system.

"Strange Interlude" depends very largely for its drama on the thoughts which occur to the characters in contrast with their words. In the pictureization of story, the dramatic effect is stronger than in the stage play, cause while the thoughts of a play are being spoken by the actors, the players' lips remain motionless. For instance, No Shearer, who has the role of Leeds, speaks a line just as she about to raise a glass to her. The line spoken, she starts to drink and as she does so, her thoughts are heard.

2 TIRES FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

THE FIRST TIME IN TIRE HISTORY THAT ONE SOLID TRAINLOAD HAS BEEN SHIPPED TO ONE COMPANY!

50,000 TIRES

A solid trainload shipped to one company—an unheard of thing up to this time—ALL TO BE SOLD AT TWO FOR THE LIST PRICE OF ONE—or less than inner tube prices in 1926.

Last year we bought 30,000 tires—but they went so fast and so many were disappointed that we ordered 50,000 this year... So that there can be no confusing comparisons—no misunderstanding, we have taken ALL THREE LINES—FIRST, SECOND AND THIRD LINE AND ARE SELLING THEM ALL AT TWO FOR THE LIST PRICE OF ONE.

These are NEW TIRES—BRAND NEW—from top to bottom—inside and outside—built within the last 90 days. These prices are low beyond seeming possibilities—but they are not $1.79 tires. Doubtless you have paid $5.00 for lesser quality. The abnormally low price of three and four cent rubber is responsible... Every tire in every line is covered with our WRITTEN lifetime warranty and definite mileage guaranty... We urge you and plead with you to come early... 50,000 tires is an enormous quantity—but the popular sizes go fast—especially the lower priced competitive or third line—which are very, very limited.

In fairness to ALL of our customers, we can't take mail orders—or telephone orders—we can't accept money for one single tire until 8 o'clock Saturday morning, May 7th.

1st LINE TIRES

Every Pharis Roadgripper tire carries the manufacturers' seal certifying that it is a 1st line tire. They are also covered by Gamble's WRITTEN guaranty for lifetime and a definite mileage, and are selling at less than 1926 inner tube prices.

STATE INCOME TAXES SHOW THIRD SHRINKAGE

Madison—(AP)—A shrinkage of almost one-third in the state normal income tax revenues for 1931 as compared with 1930 is indicated by reports received from district tax assessors by H. B. Beyer, chief income tax auditor for the state tax commission.

Mr. Beyer said preliminary reports show that the normal income taxes will total approximately $12,000,000 as compared with $18,543,472 last year. No estimates are yet available for the revenues derived from surtaxes.

The emergency relief law enacted at the special session of the legislature will produce approximately $6,000,000 by the surtax and approximately $200,000 by the chain store tax, Commissioner Harold Groves said on the basis of present reports.

If the law produces $6,200,000 a total of $2,242,000 will remain for distribution to local governments on the basis of 25 per cent of the money spent by the local units for relief in 1931. The first allotment under the law was for $3,000,000. The forestry fund is $500,000, the unallocated free fund $250,000 and the amount set aside for administering the law is $30,000.

The state industrial commission, which is administering the relief law, has received reports showing that counties, towns, cities and villages spent $5,657,000 for direct relief in 1931 and an additional $2,258,000 in wages on public works.

OTTO K. ETEL MANAGER

TI-Roosevelt GROUP IN FAVOR OF OWEN YOUNG

can Toward Man Seldom Mentioned in Democratic Campaign

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Let no reader be utterly flabbergasted if some of the more potent Democratic leaders, between now and the time a party presidential candidate is nominated, each into the bag and pull out Mr. Owen D. Young.

There is a respectable segment of political opinion which holds that the real underlying political fight of the pre-convention season is between Mr. Young and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, although you hardly ever hear any public mention of Mr. Young, who has said that he is not a candidate and in whose behalf no open contest has been made for delegates.

That the leaders who are trying hardest to block Roosevelt actually have Young in their hearts has been indicated by a succession of incidents and stories which have cropped up in the last year or so.

Money Likes Him

If such a plot is brewing, it could only be effective after the first few ballots of the convention showed the impossibility of nominating Roosevelt. One or two reports indicate that something may be done to build up Young openly, in advance of the convention, so that the delegates won't have it popped on them too suddenly, but the Young candidacy if it may be called that, will remain a pure dark horse proposition.

The "Young Plan" is said to repose principally in the bosom of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. J. Smith, National Chairman John J. Raskob and Executive Chairman J. P. Morgan, with assurance of enthusiastic support from some of the party's politically-minded millionaires.

Hague is considered the most active of the anti-Roosevelt leaders and the most vigorous supporter of Mr. Young. An eminently practical and successful politician, Hague holds that the Democratic party has lost presidential elections in the past because it never quite convinced the nation's business interests of its fundamental conservatism. Hence, from Hague's viewpoint, Mr. Young would be no less than the ideal candidate.

Avoid Searing Business

A similar feeling exists among various other important Democrats, and the party's leaders have made an obvious attempt for some time now to avoid any step which might scare the conservative business interests away.

Smith, unless his political judgment has deserted him completely, has small hope of nomination despite his row with Roosevelt. He has been friendly with Young and a couple of years ago it was widely believed that his choice would be between Young and Roosevelt.

The available signs, though few, lead to the belief that his choice now lies between Smith and Young, accompanied by a realistic snoop of his own poor chances.

Would Be "Drafted"

The wary, conservative Raskob and his able ally, John D. Shouse, are at least quite favorably disposed toward Young, although there is a lack of evidence that they are doing anything specific to promote his cause at this time.

There is no evidence, either, that Young is doing anything to seek his own nomination. If he gets it the theory will be that he is being "drafted" by his party, although in that case the trusts that there will be no blather about acceptance of the nomination at great personal sacrifice.

He would certainly accept, although one has heard native Democrats express doubt, and there is no reason to suppose that he would not be positively delighted.

West Would Fight

Whether Young, with his vast corporate affiliations, will be nominated in the event-Rooseveltism seemed definitely blocked is open to question. It would have to be done over the dead bodies of the western progressives and the anti-power trust element and it might be that no candidate backed by the Smith-Hague-Raskob group would stand a chance against the fury of the disappointed Rooseveltites.

But no one will be wanting a repetition of the long Madison Square Garden fight of 1924. If Roosevelt should not be nominated on an early ballot the delegates generally would start looking for someone else and many of them could be easily led.

And there is the chance that Tammany Hall, concerned chiefly with local elections, might swing New York's 94 votes to Young rather than take sides in a bitter Smith-Roosevelt fight.

LANGUAGE WAR IN MALTA

Whether English or Italian should be the ruling language is a question which has started a war of tongues in Malta. "Ignorance of the English language is a fatal social drawback in Malta, but ignorance of Italian is unnoticed because one has no occasion to display one's ignorance," declared one newspaper. Champions of Italian say it is necessary to these wishing culture and refinement.

Dethroned Gang Czar Enters Penitentiary

The gateway and administration building of the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., where Alphonse Capone is serving 11 years, minus time off for good behavior, for violation of federal income tax laws, is shown in the upper picture. In the lower picture Capone, until recently overlord of the largest gang in the nation is being led to the train handcuffed and under heavy guard on his way from Chicago to Atlanta. Beside him are U. S. Marshal Henry C. W. Laubenhimer, right, and Deputy Marshal William G. Thompson, left. Behind them, his face showing between Capone and Laubenhimer, is the man to whom Capone is manacled—Vito Morici, accused auto thief, being taken to Tampa, Fla., for trial.

Al Capone's Gang Career Began Over 11 Years Ago

Chicago—(P)—The hand of Uncle Sam has written the latest entry in the imposing record of the law versus "Scarface" Al Capone.

"Taken to the Atlanta" penitentiary May 2, 1932—just one line, but it drew the curtain on a career that for years is reputed to have flaunted virtual immunity in the face of law and order.

"Way back in January, 1921, when as a young hoodlum he began his rise to gangland leadership, the first entry appears:

SECURITY RULES IN AFGHANISTAN, REPLACING STRIFE

New Roads and Bridges Linking Up Long Separated Provinces

Kabul, Afghanistan—(P)—A transformation scene is being unfolded in this hitherto turbulent mountain kingdom of middle Asia.

Until two years ago, when Nadir Shah took over the throne which had been wrested from his modernistic nephew, Amanullah, the land had been torn with tribal strife.

Now peace, prosperity and security have become the rule, with new roads and bridges linking up the provinces, a parliament passing laws and schools turning out prize scholars for study in America and Europe.

Railroad Is Planned

There is even talk of a real railroad running from the Indian border near the Khyber Pass, through Jalalabad to this capital and thence on to the southerly cities of Kandahar and Chaman. There may be a secondary line from Chaman to Herat.

Such a road would total 990 miles, a difficult and expensive undertaking in the rough and mountainous country.

At present the only railroad runs out from Kabul for two miles. But it is little more than a tramway and the one train makes a trip only when a temperamental locomotive permits the journey.

The proposed trunk line would tap the richest portions of the kingdom and, with motor roads to feed it, would put all sections of the realm within quick reach of each other. Naturally this would be of great military advantage to the monarch should any of the unruly hill tribes attempt to depose him.

But beyond that would be the fact that Afghanistan's minerals, fruits, carpets, shawls, hides and wool would no longer have to depend upon transport by plodding camel caravans to the gateway of the Khyber Pass.

Is British Minded

The man who is planning these physical changes is making political changes as well. Peace and order here mean added security for British India and create a buffer against any threat of aggression from Soviet Russia's mid-Asiatic territory. Consequently the monarch is getting plenty of British help in the way of munitions and money.

Nadir Shah was, in fact, born under the British flag. His parents two years before his birth 50 years ago fled to India when Yaqub Khan was deposed as amir of Afghanistan, accompanying the exiled monarch was Sirdar Yahyah Khan and two of his sons, one of whom was the father of the man who now rules 7,000,000 Afghans.

Nadir Shah was christened Mohammed Yusuf Khan. He went to a village school in Delat, Dup and might still be an obscure figure in that small hill station in India but for a quarrel between his grandfather and the ex-amir.

The retainer went back to Afghanistan, taking his family with him. There Amir Abdur Rahman, who succeeded Yaqub Khan, gave his heir, Prince Habibullah, in marriage to Nadir Shah's sister.

When Habibullah became king, his brothers-in-law were given high positions and Nadir Shah rose to command of the Afghan army. Later he was a successful diplomat as minister to France.

Lurper on Throne

Then Habibullah died and Prince Amanullah, his second son, seized the power. The eldest son, Inayatullah, was too weak to press his legitimate claim to the throne.

Not content with the title "amir," which means only a glorified chief and landlord, Amanullah proclaimed himself king. Then he tried to modernize his realm. But frock-coated cabinet ministers and an unveiled queen in Paris gowns were not to the taste of his orthodox Mohammedan subjects.

Amanullah was deposed and for a brief interval the weak elder brother sat on the shaky throne. A brigand from the hills, known as "The Water Boy of the North" overthrew him and then Nadir Shah returned from France, placed himself at the head of his old troops and vanquished the usurper.

SCOTLAND GETS HIGH CLIFFS

A Campbell Blair has bequeathed to Scotland the southern portion of the headland of Ardmeanoch, known as the Burg. The Burg cliffs, exposed to the Atlantic, rise 1200 feet from the sea, and provide sanctuary for many sea birds. The cliffs contain many caves, including the MacCulloch cave, once visited by Dr. Johnson. On the Burg is also to be seen the famous MacCulloch tree, one of the most ancient fossil trees in existence.

Water dominoes is a new sport introduced at Catalina Island.

"Eczema broke out in pimples all around my neck and extended down my back. It became dry and scales would form, and it itched terribly and burned like fire. I could not sleep for scratching. I used four boxes of Cuticura Soap and five boxes of Cuticura Ointment for about six months and I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Irene Drake, 300 S. Broadway, Spencerville, Ohio, Aug. 21, 1931.

HUEY LONG ASKS APPOINTMENTS TO NEW COMMITTEES

Washington—(P)—Huey Long of Louisiana, wants a new set of committee appointments to replace those he threw up last week.

Soon after the senate Tuesday accepted his committee resignations and parceled out the jobs among its junior Democratic members, the irrepressible Long explained he had resigned the posts so as not to be under obligation to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the party leader, when he jumped all over him in a speech from the floor.

Now, he said, he expects the Democratic caucus to give him a new list of jobs.

HOW RUDE OF HIM!

"Did you hear Robinson snoring in church this morning? It was simply awful."

"Yes, I did—he woke me up." —TIT-BITS.

Not in 25 years have so many fields of alfalfa and clover been winter-killed as during the past winter. Practically every farmer in this community has lost some fields of clover, and is experiencing an extreme shortage of cattle feed. Every yard of baled hay may be seen going from Chilton to surrounding farms, as the pastures are also unusually poor for this time of year. Farmers are being put to great expense to feed their cattle, one farmer having already paid out $700 for feed for his stock this spring.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE PENALTY DOUBLE OF A BID OF ONE

Hand No. 8 of the World Bridge Olympiad series, which was played simultaneously throughout the world in April, was an illustration of the stinging penalty sometimes suffered on an apparently sound overall bid. This hand was not designed to prove that Overcalls of Opening bids should not be made, for otherwise the defending hands would surrender to those who had opened the bidding one of their most effective weapons at the Contract table, but it did portray vividly the dangers inherent in the distribution of fifty-two cards to four players around the table.

The hand and bidding were:
North-Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠ A K 10 8
♥ J 10 8 5
♦ A K 3 2
♣ 7 6 5 2

♥ Q 7 5 2
♦ Q 7 6 3
♣ Q 10 9

♠ A Q 10
♥ 6 5
♦ K Q 5
♣ J 5 4

♠ K J 9 7 3 2
♥ A 4
♦ A 4
♣ 8 7 6

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
1V(1) 1A(2)
Dbl.(3) Pass Pass Pass

1-North opens with a bid of one in his higher ranking four-card suit.

2-East's hand calls for an Overcall of one spade, even though he is vulnerable. The disastrous outcome is one of those misfortunes which cannot be guarded against.

3-South's hand calls for an immediate Penalty Double. This apprises partner of the character of his hand and promises a much bigger score than playing the hand at any declaration of his own.

In the play of this hand, North and South must both be alert to take full advantage of the favors of distribution. The first play requires North, whether or not the Queen of hearts has been played from Dummy, to overtake the heart Knave, in order to provide an additional entry into his hand. If the full extent of the disaster, which East faces, is to be capitalized by the defending players, North must be in the lead as often as possible. His purpose, therefore,

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Andy Laib loses crown in Mystic Shrine of Ananias
Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Close comparison between old and new fish stories asked at that mecca of plausible and improbable tales the local post office—have resulted in a new champion. Andy Laib, who for years has worn the mantle for recounting the most fantastic fishing stories, has retired for the present to broad discomfiture behind the sorting cabinets. He glowers darkly upon his successor, one Mac Donner, whose story from the northern trout streams admits him to the inner courts of the Mystic Shrine of Ananias.

Among connoisseurs of plain and fancy fish stories the one which heaped honor upon the brow of Mr. Laib went like this: Andy caught a large catfish in its stomach was an egg which, when hatched, developed a cocky Leghorn rooster having a split tail, webbed feet and feathers underlined with scales. Intimate friends of the rooster swore that it meowed like a cat, but Mr. Laib, a stickler for facts, said that personally he had never heard it meow. Others claimed that the rooster was a catbird, with one green and one red eye which glowed at night like the starboard and larboard lights of a catboat. The old bird died long

Valley Baseball League Ready For Opening Of 1932 Schedule

CLUBS TO SHOW MANY NEW MEN; SPEED UP GAMES

Admission Prices Will Be 50 Cents Top in All Loop Parks

WITH an admonition from President C. O. Baetz to "step on the gas, and make this season one of the best ever," valley league baseball moguls last night put the finishing touches on plans for opening the 1932 race Sunday afternoon.

Player lists were presented to the league president, the list of umpires was discussed and discussed as usual, and the price of admission and the question of speeding up games were ironed out.

From the lists the moguls turned in there will be a lot of new faces in the loop, faces of ball players well known to the older fans, men who have been playing in faster company but who now find the couple shekels they can pick up hereabouts mighty handy pin money.

Handy At Shawano

Jerry Kral up at Shawano has announced the addition of Handy, a catcher, to his staff, and a couple Indians to make positive that his club will be called the "Indians."

Green Bay has added another Irishman to its roster to be called the Irish and Messers. Calhoun, Snavely and Huxford. In the Irish despite the fact that the manager will be one Mr. Ben Rosenberg. Other Irishers on the Bay team are Wall, short; Muldowney, right field; Mahony pitch and Morgan, catch.

Mary Lamers at Kaukauna

use Slim Londorot of basketball fame if Danny Collins doesn't seek his old berth at first base. And Lefty Kral will be the ace hurler. Lefty is well known in this section for his efforts with two Rivers.

Kimberly has gone in heavily for talent and announced addition of the veteran Doc Delmore and a flock of other players while Appleton reported George Schultz, third baseman as the only new player. Wisconsin Rapids will have at least three new faces among them Eddie Kotal formerly of Kimberly, Green Bay, Appleton and points north, east, south and west.

Show New Empires

There also will be a flow of new umpires the most important addition being Herr, formerly of the State league and a mighty good umpire.

Admission to games in most parks will be 50 cents top with varied prices for the bleachers and standing or sitting room in cars. Among the new innovation this year will be music before games at Green Bay. The "Irish" are going in for good shows and hope to attract every good Belgian with four bits to spare.

Managers also were informed they must have bells on the dug outs and that the umpires will be instructed to be on hand at 1:50 every Sunday to direct batting and fielding practice. And when the gong rings at batting practice that means school is called and the boys are to give way to the other club. And if a team doesn't arrive in time to take the field that's so much labor gone forever.

The edict also was handed out that games begin at 2:30 and be over in an hour and 50 minutes. President Baetz told the boys they tolled too long last year and umpires will be instructed to have them speed up the battles.

Sunday's games will see Appleton opening the season at Wisconsin Rapids, Kaukauna invading Shawano and Green Bay at Kimberly.

A. A. PREXY WOULD OPEN SEASON LATE

St. Paul —(CP)— Opening of the baseball season two weeks later than usual would save club owners money and increase attendance, in the opinion of T. J. Hickey, president of the American association.

Hickey, visiting here yesterday, said better weather conditions would be encountered with a deferred start which in turn would bring out more fans.

A close race in the association this season, Hickey said, will help attendance, and he was confident the league will equal last year's figures.

The paid attendance at yesterday's game here between Columbus and St. Paul was only 116 and at the Toledo-Milwaukee contest about 500 persons were on hand. It was a chilly, rain-threatening day.

SPILLS FEATURING CHICAGO HORSE RACES

Chicago —(CP)— Six day bike racing hasn't got much on jockeying at Sportsman's Park. Chicago's new half mile track, for thrills and spills. Because of the unaccustomed number of necessary turns on the abbreviated oval, most of the horses engage in wild battles for the rail with resultant spills. Yesterday, two jockeys were roughly dismounted in falls. D. E. Froggare, one of the victims, suffering a fracture of the thigh.

But since the track opened Monday, the form players have been rewarded consistently.

17 YEAR OLD BOOTS IN TWO WINNERS

Annapolis, Md. —(CP)— Jockey Charley King is getting the early bouquets at Exposition park's racing strip.

Since the start of the season here Monday, he has been riding brilliantly and getting nose decisions with fine winners yesterday he rode two winners. Yesterday his horse tried to quit the last sixteenth.

King, only 17, comes from Shelbyville, Ill.

PLAY ONE GAME IN OLDER BOY LEAGUE

Only one game was played in the Older Boy softball league of the Y. M. C. A. last night, two others going as forfeits.

The Warner Theatres met and whopped the Delta H-Y team in a game that was close until the last inning when the Warners chased eight runs across the plate for a 21 and 5 score. Previous to that the Warners had scored at least one run in all but the first inning.

Sophomores forfeited to the Bears and the Outcasts forfeited to the Specials.

ST. THERESE NINE BEATS KIMBERLY

With Harold Doerfler, pitcher, striking out 17 batters, St. Therese Catholic school, Appleton, won its first game in the Valley parochial school league, by a score of 13 and 3. Holy Name of Kimberly was the loser. Francis Burton had the honor of smashing out the first home run.

New Point Commandant Was Grid And Track Star

BY LAWRENCE PERRY Copyright 1932

NEW YORK — (CPA)— Another sheaf of facts and impressions garnered these bright May days:

Just as every military post and every naval fleet is on tenter hooks when a new commanding officer assumes command, so is every university and college when a new one is treading softly at West Point, where Major General William D. Connor relieves Gen. Smith as superintendent of the United States Military Academy. Every phase of life, social, official, military, and athletic, takes color from the attitude of the officer in command.

In athletics, whatever stand may be taken in other respects, Gen. Connor should be completely regular, inasmuch as he was the academy champion in the century and quarter miles and as end and captain of the Army eleven of 1895, he got a place on Walter Camp's third all-American team.

Ray Fisher, Michigan baseball coach, says there is less to choose between university and college baseball than there is between football eleven of big and little institutions. Few probably have failed to notice this.

The bill for dry cleaning of spring clothes as a result of attendance upon the Penn relays must have mounted into the thousands of dollars, or so of calcium chloride would have made the Franklin field arena, a much less dusty place and the maledictions of those wearing blue raincoat would not have sullied the delicate spring afternoon.

Look out for that Princeton crew, one of the best that the ever rowed for old Nassau, in the opinion of aquatic wisacres. The Tigers had the lee shore in the Navy race and had to watch the middle boys

TICK ON NOW IS FAVORED TO WIN KENTUCKY DERBY

Universe Slightly Lame After Wrenching Joint in Workout

BY C. ROBERT KAY Associated Press Staff Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(CP)— Disastrous pre-derby training campaign of three leading eligibles have resulted in one, T. G. Kauffman's Tick On becoming almost a stand-out favorite to capture the fifty-eight Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Sunday.

The latest derby nominee overtaken by misfortune is T. M. Cassidy's Universe, which was slightly lame today after wrenching a joint in his left foreleg in a workout yesterday.

Universe, winner of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, is secondary favorite to Tick On in the future book odds.

Dr. N. L. Southard, veterinarian, said there was a "good possibility" Universe could start in the derby, but the railroads were shaking their heads gloomily over the chances of the Loma Stable's nominee recovering sufficiently to run his best race Saturday.

Top Flight Scratched

If Universe is withdrawn from the derby, he will be the third ranking contender eliminated by the strenuous training campaign for this year's renewal of the historic $50,000 stake. The Shandon Farm's Burning Blaze, principal hope of the west, was crippled while racing at the Downs Saturday, and Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's leading juvenile of last year, was withdrawn from the derby after running fourth in the Wood Memorial, which Universe won.

Tick On, though beaten in his only start of the year, is favorite on the basis of his two-and-a-half mile win of $37,500 and as a result of his dominating top form in workouts at the Downs. Tick On was given his final intensive derby prep yesterday working the full derby distance of a mile and a quarter in 2:07. Only a short morning gallop the day before the race remains to top off his training.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Burgoon King and Brother Joe also wound up their intensive training. Burgoon King going the mile and a quarter in 2:08 and Brother Joe in 2:09. The Brandon Stable's Brandon Mint worked the distance in 2:09 3/4 and R. M. Eastman's Cathop in 2:09 4/5.

The three D's stable's Liberty Limited, which has suffered from sore heels on and off for the past ten days, appeared today to have entirely recovered. Trainer Johnny Schorr said "The Limited" was a "certain derby starter and the 'wise boys' have set him down as a sleeper which might wake up on derby day and capture the big prize.

Send In Overtime

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's derby pair, Stepanofetch and Over Time, worked a mile and an eighth together in 1:55 yesterday to complete their training. Veteran jockeys will be aboard the Whitney pair Saturday. L. Enzor on Stepanofetch and Earl Sande on Over Time.

The derby fans have seen the last of the derby season in actual competition until the derby itself is run. R. W. Collins' Thistle Ace was the only derby possibility which raced yesterday, running third in a mile event for three-year-olds. No probable starters are on the Downs card today, and it is extremely unlikely any will race tomorrow, the day before the derby.

San Francisco — Ralph Chong, New Orleans, outpointed Battling Dozier, Wichita, Kas., (6). Jack Gibbs, Tulsa, Okla., won by a technical knockout over "Sailor" Tilden, Navy, (2).

The rumor that Princeton football candidates would be required to report to a dude ranch out west next July has let Coach Candler in for a number of letters and telegrams from race alumni. It was a hoax, printed in the local student daily.

Occidental in Los Angeles is grooming a hurdler for the Olympic games who is counted on to win the 490-meter hurdle. Jimmy Meeks, the football captain, is the man. Meeks has run 1.4 and 2.5 respectively. He goes in for the quarter.

He has no lost a hurdle event on the Pacific coast in two years.

Dr. Clarence W. Spears, the new Wisconsin football coach, will act as referee of the dual Wisconsin-Marquette track meet Friday. It will be a night affair. Every track, it is found, becomes financially profitable when athletes perform under the electric lights. As a measure of economy, Conrad Jennings, director of athletics at Marquette, took his track team to the Drake relays in motor cars.

The success of racketeers in making several thousands dollars out of selling fake buttons and the like upon the pretense of raising money for the Olympic fund inspired a prominent track official to suggest to Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, that the plan be tried out on the level, with officially appointed salesmen to work on a commission. But Mr. Brundage said nothing doing. If the racketeers of the fund put their backs into the work, he says, no unqualified expedients need be tried.

Chaff'n ChatteR

By Gordon R. McIntyre

BABE RUTH has suffered only three backsets this year. The first was a stiff neck contracted in Florida. The second was a touch of influenza. The third was and still is, a twisted knee sustained when he slid into third base recently. Otherwise the Babe is O. K.

Superstition?

This year, it has been observed from the press box, the Babe has not been following his ancient superstitious practice of touching second base as he comes in to the bench from the outfield. The guesses are that he thinks more of saving his legs than of the value of the superstition.

Venzeke Saves Up, Too

Speaking of saving the legs, Gene Venzeke, who ran a mile in 4:10, will compete in only three track meets before the tryouts for the Olympic team. The boy marvel from Bowers town, Pa., figures that will keep him in tune without burning him out.

On the Same Subject

Still on the topic of economy, have you noticed how Herb Pennock of the Yankees has been frisking around this year, his 20th in the majors? And Eppe Rixey, likewise.

ASSOCIATION RACE PLEASES HICKEY; THREE TEAMS TIED

Louisville and Milwaukee Postpone Game Because of Cold

BY PAUL MCKELSON Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO —(CP)— Thomas Jefferson Hickey, who does the presidential worrying for the American association, took a look at the standings today and crossed his fingers.

Three of the best baseball cities in the circuit, Kansas City, Minneapolis and Indianapolis, were deadlocked at the 567 percentage mark for first place while Milwaukee and Columbus, where winning teams mean big gates, were going strong.

It was almost a perfect setting for the box office viewpoint, an equally crucial financial year for the league.

Indians Stage Uprising

Indianapolis threw the race for the flag into a triple tie with the wildest inning of baseball so far this season. With the score knotted at five all, the Indians staged a fierce uprising in the eighth inning, pushing over nine runs and ultimately breezed in the winner, 14 to 7. During the scoring riot, featured by a triple by Sigafos with the bases jammed, Frank Gabler, rookie pitcher for the Blues, was struck on the head by a line drive off Tom Angley's bat and injured. Heaving, the third and last of the Indian pitchers to take the mound, celebrated his victory by smacking out two hits in the ninth inning, which pushed Indianapolis into a tie for first place.

Donnie Bush and his Minneapolis Millers hurried into the first place scramble with a fine 11 inning victory over Toledo. Rube Benton pitched the route for the Millers against Roxie Lawson and Elam Van Gilder and was rewarded in the eleventh when Gangel cracked out a single with the bases loaded and one out to win the battle, 3 to 2. Both teams collected but six hits each. Eight was the pitching although a total of 16 passes were distributed. The victory gave the Millers a clean sweep of the four-game series.

Senators Sweep Series

Columbus swept its four-game series with St. Paul by routing over three runs in the ninth inning and winning 5 to 3. Harris held the Red Birds to five hits until the fatal ninth but two doubles and two singles wrecked him. Only 115 spectators watched the game.

Louisville and Milwaukee took yesterday off figuring it was too cold to play.

Louisville moved to Minneapolis. Indianapolis to St. Paul. Toledo to Kansas City and Columbus to Milwaukee for new series today.

VIKES ARRANGE MEETS WITH OSHKOSH, U. W.

Two competitive meets for Lawrence college athletes have been arranged by Arthur C. Denney, athletic director.

Next Wednesday afternoon the Vikes track and field teams will clash with Oshkosh state teachers college here. Eddie Kotal of Stevens Point also will be invited to bring some of his boys down.

The other meet is for the Lawrence golf team and consists of a dual meet with the University of Wisconsin. The meet must be approved by the Badgers before official. Lawrence last week defeated Carroll's strong team and this week-end clashes with Ripon over Butte des Morts course.

Reno, Nev. — Mickey McFarland, Pueblo, Colo., won a decision from Romeo Lemay, Fullerton, Calif., (10).

LON WARNECKE GIVES BUCS SIX HITS; CUBS WIN

Eastern National League: Clubs Make First Invasion of the West

BY GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Staff Writer

HAVING won their spurs in the east, Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves invaded the western strongholds of the National league today for a whirlwind two-weeks campaign that will prove pretty definitely whether they can "take it."

In that time the current leaders will meet all four western members, including their closer rivals, the Chicago Cubs and the champion St. Louis Cardinals. If the Braves hold their own somebody will have to take them very seriously.

HACK RETURNS

Chicago —(CP)— Dressed in a Brooklyn uniform, Hack Wilson came back today to Wrigley field, the scene of his rise and fall in baseball, and all his cheerers and jeers reported themselves ready for welcoming "celebration."

The big, little fellow always was a center of attraction during his career in a Cub uniform at Wrigley field. His appearance at the plate usually called for cheers or boos. When he hit a home run, his admirers whooped it up; when he struck out, his booing section got its money's worth.

So today all the Cub fans planned to welcome him in old time fashion as the Reds opened their initial series of the season at Wrigley field.

Golfers Staying at Home

Most of our golfers, perhaps with a rainy day in mind, will refrain from competing abroad this summer. Mac Smith, Billy Burke and Tommy Armour expect to tee up in British Open, but most of the trans-Atlantic golf traffic will be coming this way. That ought to be a great help to home industries.

Tunney Finally Unhoused

Gene Tunney unhoused an expensive word in an interview with the press the other day. The former champion, classified Johnny Buckley's prompt action in preventing Jack Shurkey from jumping out of the ring in his battle with Primo Carnera as "fortuitous." Spending a word now and then should help to bring back prosperity.

DOPE LAWRENCE TO LOSE TRACK MEET

Competitive Records Show Ripon Squad Will Have Edge Saturday

Lawrence college track and field team is expected to take it on the chin again Saturday when the Vikes stage a dual meet with Ripon at George A. Whiting athletic field. The meet is the second this season for both schools.

Lawrence last week took a trimming from Carroll college then class hero Bill Egan was being beaten by Ripon at Ripon.

Bill Foote is expected to help the Vikes materially in their quest for points. The Appleton route scoring first last week in the pole vault and high jump. Bud Marston, John Reeve and Bob Roemer also of Appleton should get a few points.

One addition to the Vike squad this week will help garner a few points in the dashes. This runner is Dornie Fairer who is being groomed for competition now that the spring and season is over.

Comparing results of the two meets last week, Ripon should take first in the hundred with Lawrence a possible second.

In the 120 Ripon will win first place easily and probably in the 440 with Lawrence second. Lawrence is hoped to win the half mile with Reeve, Appleton, picking up the points. Roemer and Roemer should be able to place one two in the mile but the two mile will go to Ripon with Lawrence second or third.

Bud Marston and Vanderbloemen look like runners in the low hurdles but Bill Foote should come through in the high. Another school has much in the broad jump, and Lawrence can take the high jump and pole vault. If Foote runs true to form.

That just about finished the Vikes for the weight events all will go to Ripon's hands.

Seattle — Carlo Rialto, Los Angeles, defeated Res Dumanias, Manila, (6).

Calling the Strikes

New York —(CPA)— The fighting Cleveland Indians are lining up to their name so far this year in the American league pennant race. They ask no quarter and they give none.

When the Washington Senators passed legislation against the Yankees recently restricting the New York's victory column, the battling Indians were right on the job and stopped mumbly up and scalped second place in the American league pennant battle. If they can keep up the good work they come east to face first the Philadelphia Athletics and then the Senators, they may yet, with the help of the Detroit Tigers uphold the honor of the western section of the league. They are hitting and their pitchers are functioning. But the real test will come with their first trip east.

Showing Last Week Makes Squad Favorite to Beat East, Manitowoc

Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton high school track and field team will get a line on his proteges tomorrow afternoon when he sends them into competition against East Green Bay and Manitowoc at George A. Whiting athletic field of Lawrence college.

The Orange competed last week against Nesh and Oshkosh and showed well. It topped the meet by five points, the contest being in doubt until the last event's marks were recorded.

Cavert is expected to win points in the century and the low hurdles and broad jump. His time in the races and his leaps in the jumps have been unusually good, it is said.

DeYoung and Johnson should pick up a few points in the pole vault and Jim Neller may again go into competition. Neller hurt his ankle several weeks ago and has been out but a few days this week.

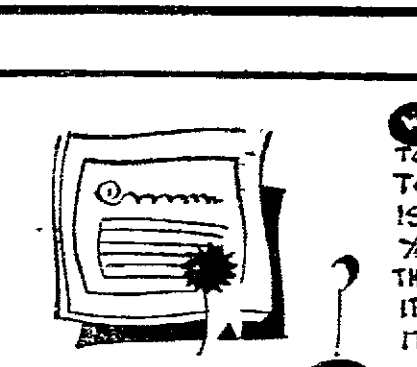

Emmett Mortell also joined the squad this week and if in condition should be able to pick up points in the high hurdles and high jump, his net events. Weber is being groomed to take the shot and discus with Tillman a probable contender.

Appleton's relay team which turned in a sensational 1:35 mark last week is given an edge to win that event.

Youngstown O. — George Panka, Pittsburgh, knocked out Tiny Powell, Akron, O., (6).

FOX RIVER BEATS COATED, 1 AND 0; BANKERS DEFEATED

Legion Stages Two Run Rally in the Eighth to Cop Decision

ONE of the most closely contested softball games in several seasons was turned in here last night by the Fox River Paper company and the Coated Paper company, the former winning the nod 1 and 0. They are American league teams.

The single run came in the fourth inning when Ray Tarnow led off with a single, stole second and went to third on a sacrifice bunt by Brockhaus. He then scored on Radtke's hit to center. Only two players reached third base for the Fox River during the remainder of the game and not a single Coated, catcher saw the third base.

Eggert and Struss were the only Coated players to get hits off Selph. Fox River collected 19 hits off H. Eggert.

In the National league the rejuvenated legion team counted two runs in the eighth inning to beat the Bankers, 10 and 9.

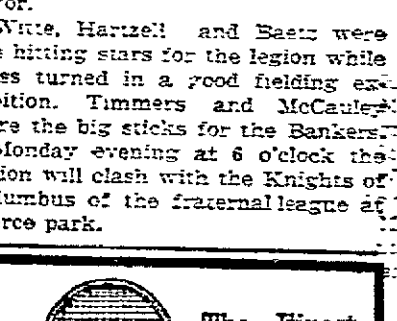

Scoring one run in the first, three in the third and one in the fourth, the Legion had a 5 and 0 advantage before the Bankers started hitting. The Banks then scored three runs in the fifth, a like number in the sixth and repeated in the seventh.

As the teams went into the eighth the Legion trailed 8 and 9. A two-run rally in the last of the eighth put the game away in the legion's favor.

Write, Harzell and Baetz were the hitting stars for the legion while Ness turned in a good hitting exhibition. Timmers and McLaughlin were the big sticks for the Bankers.

Monday evening at 6 o'clock the legion will clash with the Knights of Columbus of the fraternal league at Pierce park.

BARTH NOT GUILTY OF COUNTERFEITING

Appleton Man Cleared by United States District

Court Jury

Irving Barth, Appleton soft drinker operator, was found not guilty of counterfeiting this morning by a jury in United States district court here.

The case went to the jury late yesterday afternoon and a sealed verdict was returned this morning. Judge Ferdinand Geiges heard the case.

The case against Barth was based on the alleged signed statement at the time of his arrest here and the testimony expected from Clyde Nau and John Wagner, arrested with Barth.

However, Nau and Wagner, now serving sentences in Fort Leavenworth testified Barth knew nothing about their counterfeiting activities.

The alleged statement signed by Barth admitting complicity was seen earlier when Barth testified he signed a paper handed him by the government agent who quizzed him in court that he did not know what it was. It was testified the man was the alleged confessor in his own words.

Nau and Wagner admitted guilt several weeks ago and drew sentences of 30 years each.

Hooverettes $1.00

"Sacson" Eyelet Batiste Dresses $2.95

Quite different from any Hooverettes we have seen. Made of attractive prints with a deep overlap so that the dress will not spread when one is seated. Tied at the waist with an organdy sash and organdy ruffles on pockets and around the armhole. A charming house frock at $1.00.

These dainty eyelet batiste frocks will be perfect for summer afternoons. Made on straight or flared lines, with cap sleeves or sleeveless. In pastel shades and white. Sizes 14 to 44. $2.95.
